Plenty of Land.
A Lynching Moral.
Beer for Tax, or Thirst?
Heard Around the World.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GALLUP, N. M., April 20.

THIS IS written on the Santa Fe train eastbound from the Pacific Ocean to New York. Just now the train rolls over the high lands in Arizona. The Grand Canyon is over to the northwest. Here and there among hills covered with pine trees you see a modern saw mill like a devouring cancer, changing green trees into flat yellow boards.

However, we have in this country more than a billion acres of land not used except for lumbering and a little grazing.

If intelligence controlled our forests they would outgrow the consuming power of saw mills.

Reforestation, with the aid of airplanes scattering seeds, will solve the forest problem when scientifically attended to.

THE PHOENIX Gazette and the Albuquerque Journal bring you news of the world, from Tokio where the Japanese are worrying, through to Moscow where the Russians seem to be planning war, and on to Washington, D. C., where the great financial puzzle is located.

KANSAS SUPPLIES a lynching, with a prohibition moral showing that it is one thing to tell men they can't have whisky and another to keep them from getting it.

A mob of 200 Kansas farmers took Robert Rean, 53 years old, from a jail at St. Francis. He had kidnaped and killed after brutally maltreating her, a girl 8 years old. The farmers did not care to wait for slow justice, and it is difficult to blame them.

The man lynched made no complaint. Standing under a tree with a rope around his neck, he said:

"You are lynching the right man. I was drunk at the time."

MAYOR WALKER of New York suggests a "beer-for-tax day" parade, to show that the people want beer. Those that pay high taxes would like a tax on beer, and for them it will be "beer-for-tax-day." To the average man in the procession it will be "beer-for-thirst" day.

Mayor Walker thinks a million men and women will be in line, and that would be interesting, for no such crowd ever gathered in any other parade from July 4 to St. Patrick's Day.

IF ONE MILLION beer advocates parade they will pass on the right and left as they march about fifty thousand speakeasies, enough to accommodate all the million paraders at once. And in those "prohibition-saloons" the paraders can get every sort of drink, from the worst beer badly made to the worst whisky with poisonous alcohol.

MILLIONS OF schoolboys have heard, thousands of patriots have talked about "the shot heard round the world" at the battle of Concord.

That shot wasn't heard around the world, even figuratively speaking. Three-quarters of the world's people never heard of it and don't know anything about it yet.

When the shot was fired 157 years ago, it would have seemed insanity to suggest that a shot would some day really be heard all around the world. But that thing has happened in the General Electric laboratories at Schenectady.

GOV. ELY of Massachusetts, fired a shot from a musket dating back to the Revolutionary War. The sound traveled over a short-wave hook-up to Kootwijk, Holland, then to Bandoeng, Java, to Sydney, Australia, and back to Schenectady.

Not only that, but the shot traveled around the world and came back to Schenectady via the radio in less time than it took for the sound of the shot to travel to the room next to that in which the musket was fired.

The high speed of electricity, 186,000 miles per second, and the slow speed of the sound wave explain that. The experiment teaches us that man can do whatever he can imagine, and therefore, he will find a way to end this depression and its complications.

THE INTERSTATE Commerce Commission urges federal control of highway traffic. This would mean discouraging motor buses for passengers and motor trucks for freight and express, now interfering seriously with railroad profits.

Railroads should be upheld and maintained in some way. They are absolutely essential to national prosperity, and if the cream of their profit is to be taken off by truck freight hauls and long motor bus passenger hauls they cannot exist.

BUT NOTHING could be more foolish, useless, or nationally harmful than discouraging that which means efficiency.

The fact that motor buses take business from railroads proves that they handle the business in a manner satisfactory to the public. To interfere with that would be as childish as it would have been to interfere with the railroads when they first arrived, in order to protect the stage coach lines.

A way must be found, by government support, or better, by improvement in railroad methods and equipment to meet competition. The problem should not and cannot be solved by trying to cripple automobile transportation, which is as important today as was the steam locomotive 100 years ago.

WHEN LAST heard from, Kansas City's one-pound St. John baby was doing well in his incubator. His first nourishment was sugar and water.

ARSON RING CHARGED BY RAIDERS

Mt. Lebanon police and county fire marshal operatives slipped out of ambush early today and arrested two youths as, the officers said, they were about to set fire to a house at 119 Academy avenue, Mt. Lebanon.

A short time later the police went to 115 Second street Rankin, and arrested Abe Tischler, 44, whom Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr accused of being the leader of an arson ring responsible for many fires in Allegheny County during the past few months.

FACE ARSON CHARGES

Pfarr and William J. Kane, chief of Mt. Lebanon police, said the two youths—Mike Deak, 20, and Joseph Salkai, 23, both of Rankin—had told them Tischler was to split $250 with them for starting the fire.

Tischler denied the charge, but all three were held on charges of arson.

Pfarr said today that the two youths were seen to enter the house late yesterday afternoon carrying a number of five-gallon cans, presumably filled with gasoline. A short time later the tenant of the house, his wife and three children left the building. The name of the tenant is unknown, Pfarr said.

OTHER FIRES PROBED

Early today Pfarr and two deputies, A. J. Strain and C. A. Lippert, Chief Kane, Capt. John Swoaffer, Lieut. Ted Carrington and Patrolmen Arthur W. Seifert, Scott Hamilton and R. L. Haley of Mt. Lebanon, secreted them-

Hotel Guest Hurt In Auto Accident

Victim of an automobile accident, J. G. Schaffer, 35, of Youngstown, a guest at the Seventh Avenue Hotel, was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital this afternoon. Mr. Schaffer, it was reported, suffered a possible torn ligament of the left ankle, injury to the left wrist and bruises of the head.

The truck involved in the accident is owned by the Fort Pitt Mine Equipment Company of Jeannette. Schaffer returned to the hotel after his injuries were dressed.

Sayre Lights Burn, City Halts Payment

SAYRE, Pa., April 20.—(AP)—Sayre's street lights burned last night at the power company's expense, the town Council having refused payment of the public lighting bill after Monday night. A positive refusal to pay was Council's last edict yesterday.

Residential lights are not affected by the dispute between Council and the power company over the terms of the lighting contract.

FREEDOM BILL PASSES DAIL

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service.

DUBLIN, April 20.—With an utter absence of impassioned oratory, President Eamonn De Valera cast the die for Irish independence this afternoon by introducing in the Dail Ereann his bill abolishing the oath of allegiance to the British crown.

Despite an unexpected blast of opposition from a fiery member of the Independent party, the bill passed its first reading without division.

De Valera, tall and stoop-shouldered, a thorn in the side of the British for years, a willing martyr who was jailed 19 times and reprieved from death for treason—all in the cause of Irish independence—stood calmly before the assemblage.

This was his moment and, although his motive was the same, he was not employing it as melodramatically as Patrick Henry, who demanded liberty or death.

With simplicity, he went ahead without forensics disputing the right of the British Empire to exercise sovereignty over the people of Ireland.

BONUS FIGHT LINKED TO MELLON

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Opposition to immediate cash payment of the $2,000,000,000 soldier bonus voiced today by two former service men was answered by Representative Patman, Texas Democrat, with the assertion that an organization with which they once were connected was supported principally by donations from Andrew W. Mellon.

VETS TESTIFY

The witnesses at today's hearing before the House Ways and Means Committee were Col. Benjamin Castle, of New York, and Capt. Knowlton Durham.

Both Castle and Durham formerly were identified with the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League. Durham said the league had been disbanded after the Detroit Legion convention as no longer necessary. The legion convention took action opposing the cash payment of the bonus after President Hoover had delivered an address.

NAMES MELLON

After the hearing, Patman, leading bonus sponsor, issued his statement regarding Mellon contributions to the Anti-Saloon League. It added:

"The Mellon connection has made the name offensive. The name has been changed to Veterans' Committee to Reduce the Cost of Peace. Patriotic hands, but Mellon's voice."

Castle in his testimony said World War veterans are "badly led by a lot of self-appointed political leaders" in seeking a bonus payment. He added that he regarded war service as the inherent obligation of every able bodied citizen. He continued:

"I resent anyone saying they speak for 4,000,000 veterans. They don't represent me; I don't want the bonus.

"If history is any criteria, payment of the bonus now is only the beginning of a juggernaut that will lead to hysteria."

Durham, who accompanied Castle, said "If Congress had intended making a cash payment before 1945, it would have written the law differently."

Avengers Duplicate Death, Kidnaping on Indians

TUCSON, Ariz., April 20.—(INS.)—Six years ago a band of wild Apache Indians murdered an American woman and kidnaped her 5-year-old son.

Today, a timid little 5-year-old Indian girl was held as hostage after her own mother had been killed by the white avengers in a border drama more strange than fiction.

Ranchers of the Nacori settlement in Sonora ambushed the Indians and seized the girl in a pitched battle high in the mountains of Sonora, according to word received here from Dixie Harris, Sonora, Mexico, range baron.

The little Indian girl's mother was killed during the fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

The Apaches six years ago attacked the hacienda of Chico Fimbres, an American citizen, in Nacori, Sonora, and killed Mrs. Fimbres. Fimbres and his son and daughter were kidnaped. Father and daughter escaped, but the boy was held captive.

Fimbres vowed vengeance and collected on the border a group of soldiers of fortune to wage war to the death against the Apaches.

COUPLE SLAIN, GANG BLAMED

MINEOLA, N. Y., April 20.—(INS.)—A lonely vacant lot two miles north of Mineola yielded gruesome evidence of a gangland ride today when the body of Edward B. Brinker, of Queens, was found beside the mutilated but still living Rose Welk, attractive young brunet who died an hour later at the Nassau Hospital.

The girl had a fractured skull, numerous stab wounds and marks of a severe beating. Her mouth had been stuffed with cotton, her lips sealed with tape and her jaws bound with a gag, mute evidence that she had sinned against the underworld code of "squealing."

The man's body was covered with cuts and bruises. Both showed evidence in their wounds that their killers were venting a vengeful spirit and that the crime was not a mere incident of a holdup or robbery.

FORBES FIELD, April 20.—More than 15,000 fans were assembled at Forbes Field this afternoon when the local baseball season, featuring the Pirates and the World Champion Cardinals, got under way.

Throngs flooded into the park as the battle began at 3 o'clock, the indication being that almost 20,000 would see the home opener.

The first clash of the season brought a slab fight between Righthander Steve Swetonic, native of the North Side, and Lefthander Bill Hallahan, the brilliant pitcher of the last world series.

Although the April skies were cast with a slight cloudiness there was enough sunshine to warm the spirits and bodies of the massed thousands. Ol' Sol was so strong that at least half of the multitude were without topcoats.

BAND AT OPENER

The two clubs gave the springtime setting added luster as they raced about the field in their new uniforms. The pretty white suits of the Bucco contrasted with the gray and cardinal of the Redbirds. Nirella's Band gave a long concert that enlivened the proceedings.

Just before the battle began the players of both teams marched to the centerfield flagpole to the strains of martial music. There the Stars and Stripes were hoisted.

At this point the festivities took on a solemn hue. The flag was lowered to a half-mast position out of respect to the memory of the late Barney Dreyfuss, for more than 30 years the owner and guiding spirit of the club.

The left sleeves of the Pittsburgh uniforms caried mourning bands in honor of their departed employer.

INFIELD GETS HAND

The Pirate infield, composed of Suhr, Piet, Thevenow and Traynor, made a marked impression in their practice session. Capt. Traynor's arm seemde to be better than it has been for years. The new sparkplug of the infield, Tony Piet, commanded the attention of the fans as he raced all around his side of the diamond. The Waner boys and Comorosky were in the outfield positions.

Pepper Martin, outstanding hero of the last world series, was a headliner with the fans, as were Bill Hallahan and Catcher Jimmy Wilson.

The fans had a nice ovation for Manager George Gibson as he returned to manage the club after an absence of almost 10 years.

White House Auto Crashes Parked Car

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(INS.)—Everet G. Phelps, 22, was seriously hurt early today when his parked automobile was struck by a White House limousine on the Baltimore-Washington pike.

The White House car was occupied by Dr. Joel T. Boone, President Hoover's physician, his wife and Maj. Gen. R. U. Patterson, surgeon general of the Army, and Mrs. Patterson. The White House car was driven by a chauffeur, and was returning the party from an opera performance in Baltimore.

Witness Today

MRS. THALIA MASSIE

Mrs. Massie, wife just past 20, who today was ready to take the stand in Honolulu to defend under the guidance of masterful Attorney Darrow the actions of her husband, Lieut. Massie.

MASSIE CASE DEFENSE SURPRISE PLANNED

By JAMES ADAM
International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 20.—An unexpected shift in defense plans may bring Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue to the witness stand in Honolulu's "honor slaying" trial to climax the testimony of her daughter, Mrs. Thalia Massie, a source close to Clarence Darrow revealed today.

The testimony of Mrs. Massie, laying bare the brutal details of the attack on her by five half-castes had been expected to drive home Darrow's case in behalf of Mrs. Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and the two naval enlisted men, Albert S. Jones and E. J. Lord.

The four Americans are accused of killing Joseph Kahahawai, alleged ringleader of the men who attacked Mrs. Massie.

'MENTAL BOMB'

The defense has contended that a "mental bomb" planted in Lieut. Massie's mind by the assault and the tragic events that followed, exploded, rendering the naval officer unaccountable for his actions when he stood over Kahahawai questioning him, gun in hand.

Darrow conferred early today with his associate counsel, George S. Leisure and disclosed that he may call one more witness to the stand after Mrs. Massie has completed her testimony and the state has finished its cross-examination of Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, the second defense alienist. Dr. Williams and Dr. Thomas J. Ormon, both pronounced Lieut. Massie insane at the time of the shooting.

It was strongly believed that if one more witness is summoned it will be the patrician Mrs. Fortescue whose love for her daughter takes her half way around the world to Honolulu and into a tragedy of the tropics.

Darrow, however, refused to name the witness definitely. He was asked:

"Will it be Mrs. Fortescue?"

He replied:

"I can't answer that."

Mrs. Massie, her nerves steeled by unswerving loyalty to the ones

WOMAN FLIER VISITS LINDY

CAMDEN, N. J., April 20.—(AP.)—A woman who was reported to have flown from Kansas City, Mo., to see Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Central Airport here today and headed west without revealing her identity. She denied, however, that her trip east had anything to do with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case.

Stepping into a big red monoplane piloted by Al Ferguson, she said:

"I am not a wealthy women, but I hired this plane because I had a very important errand here. That is all I can say."

TRENTON, N. J., April 20.—(INS.)—The mysterious visit of a man and a woman who came from Kansas City in a plane yesterday to confer with investigators of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping was explained in today's bulletin from Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf. It said:

"Mr. Eustis and a friend visited these headquarters yesterday and offered information which upon further investigation proved to have no connection with this case."

Court Asks Records In Cunningham Case

Cunningham, of Tuttle Creek, indicted in Butler County as one of eight persons attempting to "fix" the jury which had been selected to hear the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, be turned over to the court.

Hoover Hears Gibbons Laud U. S. Forces in China

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(INS.)—Floyd Gibbons, war correspondent for the International News Service just returned from China, reported to President Hoover today that the American Marines and infantrymen who protected our interests in Shanghai during the recent Sino-Japanese incident deserved the highest praise for the intelligence and diplomatic manner in which they handled an extremely dangerous situation.

Gibbons particularly lauded Jesse Cook, of Cincinnati, 26-year-old lieutenant of Marines, for his courage and tact. He told the President of one incident where three Japanese officers and 20 Japanese marines invaded the International Settlement looking for Chinese and entered the American headquarters with drawn guns. Gibbons said:

"Lieut. Cook had the guns of the three officers jammed into his stomach and behind them were their men with fixed bayonets. In the rear of the Japs were an equal number of American Marines, also with their guns in readiness. I have never seen a more ticklish minute, but Cook met the situation, told the Japanese to put their guns down before he would talk to them, and got them out of the Settlement and through the American lines without incident."

The President congratulated Gibbons on the able fashion in which he had reported the 32-day conflict at Shanghai and the earlier disturbances in Manchuria.

SENATE SUSPECTS DEBT MISSION BEHIND STIMSON'S TRIP

BRITISH STAND BRINGS NEW CRITICISM

'No Reason for Assuming Europe Cannot Pay,' Says Borah; Raps Smith Plan

By GEORGE E. HOLMES
International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Great Britain's failure to make any provision in her budget for resuming payment on her war debt to the United States had the effect today of provoking the Senate to renewed criticism of Europe's attitude on [illegible] and of focusing [illegible] on Secretary Stimson's present [illegible].

Although it has been repeatedly denied, the Senate suspects that Stimson's trip to Europe concerns the debt—rejection of this angle as much if not more than disarmament, which is the ostensible purpose of his journey.

SENATE SUSPICIOUS

The temper of the Senate was plainly shown by Senators Borah (Rep.) of Idaho; Lewis (Dem.) of Illinois; Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, and Howell (Rep.) of Nebraska.

The Senate is plainly suspicious about the whole situation.

Equally the Senate is determined that the Hoover one-year debt moratorium shall not be extended when it expires on June 30 next. So far as the Senate is concerned Europe will resume payments to the American Treasury or Europe will default. Not more than a handful of votes could be obtained in either house in favor of extending the moratorium no matter what pressure is exerted for it.

Borah ridiculed Alfred E. Smith's recent suggestion for a 20-year moratorium and progressive cancellation of the whole of the debts by crediting each debtor with 25 per cent of its annual purchases of American goods. He pointed out that this would amount simply to transferring an additional [illegible] annually on the American people of some $12,000,000,000. Borah said:

BORAH'S CRITICISM

"There is no occasion for assuming these foreign nations cannot meet their obligations to us."

Howell attacked the "invisible government" of international bankers as being behind all the schemes to persuade the United States to cancel the debts.

Senator Reed declared he had no doubt but that Great Britain and France would resume their debt payments at the proper time.

This was interpreted as meaning that Andrew W. Mellon, the new American ambassador to London, has given the British no such hope.

Plea for Economy Pleases Hoover

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—More than a score of Ohio businessmen, after carrying to President Hoover a request for even greater government economy than that already proposed, reported today that he had expressed himself "very pleased with their plea."

George S. Case of Cleveland, spokesman for the group, said he had suggested to Mr. Hoover an emergency reorganization of the government and an immediate slicing of federal salaries in order to reduce the staggering burden of taxation.

Railroad Across Andes Abandoned

MENDOZA, Argentina, April 20.—(AP)—The world-famous Trans-Andine Railroad, which links the Atlantic and the Pacific over the Andes two miles above the sea, was abandoned today.

Tariff walls which have sprung up between Argentina and Chile each struggling to maintain its business in times of economic distress, have halted the trains over the 15 miles of narrow gauge track and have terminated a 60-year battle of engineering against the forces of nature.

selves in and around the building, Pfarr said.

"Shortly after 1 a. m. two men were seen to enter the house. An hour later the officers closed in and found paper strewn over all of the floors. At the time, the men were preparing to pour the contents of the cans on the paper. In all we found about 60 gallons of gasoline and other inflammable liquid."

Accompanying the raiding party was E. J. Ritz, state deputy fire marshal of West Virginia who has been conferring with Pfarr for several days in the hope of clearing up a number of fires in West Virginia.

Both Deak and Salkai were unemployed.

2 Accused of Arson In McKeesport Fire

WOMEN OUTLINE DRY VIEWS TO HOOVER

Won't Support Dry on Wet Platform; Score Mellon For Serving of Wine

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Representatives of Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement today presented to President Hoover a resolution declaring they would not support "a dry candidate on a wet platform" of either party.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, national chairman of the committee, declared she read the resolution to President Hoover after entering his office at the head of about a dozen women officers of the organization.

The resolution demanded "a more rigid enforcement of the prohibition law with full appropriations needed for such enforcement."

PRAISE FOR CONGRESS

It expressed appreciation for members of Congress standing "against all opposition" to the Eighteenth Amendment.

Mrs. Peabody said she also had presented to Mr. Hoover a pamphlet prepared by her organization listing statements made by him upon the Eighteenth Amendment. She declared each of the statements, beginning in March, 1925, and ending last October, presented "clear testimony" of the President's support of the dry law.

After her talk with the President, Mrs. Peabody said members of her delegation had declared to him their support of his candidacy. She explained later:

"Mr. Hoover is our man. We trust him, but we do not trust some members of the Republican party who are seeking to insert a wet plank at the Chicago convention."

FLING AT MELLON

Mrs. Peabody said one portion of the resolutions read to the President referred to Ambassador Mellon, who was recently reported from London as allowing wine to be used in the American embassy. That section of the resolutions read:

"We respectfully suggest that ambassadors to foreign countries be instructed that they are there to represent the interests and government of America and are under the protection of the American government and are under the protection of the American flag which involves their respect for our constitutional law and their observance and defense of that law while they are in office." . . .

Previously, vigorous opposition to any modification of the prohibition laws was expressed before a Senate judiciary sub-committee by spokesmen for more than 150 prohibitionists, mostly women, who crowded the big committee room.

Miss Vida Milholland, New York member of the Woman's Committee for Law Enforcement, advocated withdrawing from the medical profession the privilege of prescribing liquor.

Mrs. Richard Aldrich, New York, said "drinking brings divorce." She said she had never known of a divorce between two drys.

SHORT-SELLERS SUBPENAED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—Subpenaes for a score of traders and brokers whose names appear on the list of short-sellers furnished by the stock exchange were issued today by the Senate Banking Committee.

The names of those called were not made public, but they were selected from among the bigger traders on the list of shorts turned over to the committee by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

Some of the witnesses are expected to be called tomorrow at resumption of the inquiry into administration charges of bear-raiding to depress the market.

The names were selected from a list of 350 traders on the list of 24,000 short sales on April 8, when the market took a sudden drop.

All of the 350 transactions involved amount to 2,500 shares or more.

Delaware's G. O. P. Indorses Hoover

DOVER, Del., April 20.—(INS)—Indorsement of President Hoover for renomination and defeat by a close margin of an attempt to insert an anti-dry plank in the Delaware state platform, were the highlights today of a stormy session of the Republican state convention here.

Nine national delegates, all favoring Hoover's renomination, were named at the conference. The sessions became so turbulent that six state troopers were summoned.

identify Eustis or his feminine companion.

In New York City, Dr. John F. Condon, author of the "Jafsie" advertisements, kept up his announced efforts of re-establishing contact with the kidnapers.

He went rowing in Long Island Sound for five hours yesterday. When about to moor his boat in Baxter Creek inlet the aged educator lost his footing and fell into the water, receiving a thorough drenching.

MAKE SECOND STOP HERE

The red monoplane which yesterday carried a woman visitor from Kansas City to the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, N. J., made its second stop in Pittsburgh shortly after noon today.

The pilot was identified as an employe of Walter T. Taber from whom the plane was rented by the woman who Taber said was in a great hurry.

The woman gave her name as Helen Ferguson.

She and the pilot stopped at Bettis Field Monday on the eastward flight, remaining for the night in the Penn-McKee Hotel, McKeesport, and resuming their Hopewell trip at 6 a. m. yesterday.

George R. Dorman, chairman of the campaign committee of depositors for reorganization of the closed Homewood Peoples Bank, announced today that three-fourths of the 2,000 shares of new stock had been sold. He said:

"It looks like we would have the entire $150,000 capital needed to start a new bank, within 10 days."

SMITH, WALKER UNITE TO FIGHT ROOSEVELT

Ex-Governor, Mayor 'Bury Hatchet,' Paper Says; Secret Luncheon Held

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Mayor James J. Walker and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith "have buried the hatchet," the New York Evening Journal declared today.

They came to an amicable understanding at a recent secret luncheon pow-wow at which Mayor Walker was the personal guest of Smith, the newspaper said, and continued:

"The general belief in well-informed political circles is that they are now joined in the movement to prevent the [illegible]nation of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency.

"Indicative of the new feeling between two of Tammany's most popular idols, it was learned authoritatively, is the former Governor's hearty indorsement of Mayor Walker's 'beer-for-taxation' parade."

For several years, the Journal states, Mayor Walker and Smith have been personally estranged. The present alliance was construed by political observers as "of the most significant national importance."

The paper said:

"Smith during the meeting with Walker at the Empire State Club revealed his plans to go on the air either tonight or tomorrow over a nation-wide radio hook-up in an effort to capture delegates from Roosevelt in the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries next Tuesday.

"Mayor Walker, it is understood, made several suggestions to Smith as to the best method of attack on the candidacy of Roosevelt. Although Gov. Roosevelt last spring, after 39 days, dismissed the charges filed against Mayor Walker by the city affairs committee, there is still a strong feeling in the city administration that Roosevelt is solely responsible for the Hofstadter legislative investigation."

Ellenbogen Urges Job Bonds at Rally

A Seventeenth Ward audience in South High School last night heard Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, congressional candidate in the Thirty-third District, urge relief for the unemployed through a $5,000,000,000 bond issue for public works. Federal legislation, Ellenbogen said, was necessary to meet the present emergency.

The Rev. James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church, urged the election of Ellenbogen and Frank A. Piekarski, attacked Congressman Harry A. Estep, seeking re-election.

Vice President Curtis tells the Daughters of the American Revolution "alien criminals must go," and:

"We must keep American neutrality as a sacred thing, helping other countries, but refusing to be drawn into their quarrels."

It is even more important to have this country thoroughly defended in order to prevent foreigners from coming here to pick a quarrel.

It is literally true that all the other nations dislike us, and a few of them hate us, including Russia, the world puzzle, that resents, with good cause, the insulting attitude of this government.

A fraction of what we spend on obsolete defense that would not defend anything in modern war would provide airplanes and submarines enough to make the country safe and put the fear of Uncle Sam into all other nations.

STRIKE BLAST LAID TO DISPOSAL OF STOLEN EXPLOSIVES

200 REPULSED IN ATTACK ON WORKERS

Militia Fired on by Lone Rifleman; Explosion Rocks Jewett, No Damage Done

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent

CADIZ, O., April 20.—An explosion that rocked Jewett early today was declared by police to have been an effort of striking miners to dispose of stolen nitroglycerine. Byron Unklesby, a striker, was arrested in the police investigation. Police said that fear of being caught with three quarts of the explosive caused the men to explode it.

The explosion shook the town of Jewett, near the Harmon Creek Coal Company which resumed night operations last night. Shortly after 1 a. m. the blast let go with a roar that was heard for miles.

TERRORISM CHARGED

At the Tasa mine, also a short distance from Jewett, a volley of shots from the darkness startled the guardsmen on duty.

A searching party failed to find the riflemen and militia officers reported that no one had been struck.

Sixty miles to the south, in Noble County, nearly 200 strike sympathizers attempted unsuccessfully to prevent 200 non-strikers from going to work at the Caldwell mine, near Caldwell. The strikers were dispersed by Sheriff Clayton McKee and six deputies with a machine gun, although no shots were fired.

STRIKERS ON MARCH

A group of strikers was reported on the march in Guernsey County, but authorities there were unable to locate them.

Three anti-aircraft guns were set up in strategic positions as a result of what the militia officers believe was an attempt to bomb the Somers mine of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company at Duncanwood yesterday.

An airplane, flying too high for identification by its Department of Commerce numbers, dropped a missile of some description, then turned and sped away. Militia planes from Cambridge were unable to pick up its trail.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure that prevailed over this section the past several days is moving eastward slowly, while low pressure of much intensity is developing over the West. A center of disturbance over Iowa produced generous rains over Eastern Kansas and Missouri and it is causing cloudy weather as far east as Western Ohio. Lowest pressure reported in this disturbance is 29.76 inches at Des Moines and Keokuk. The disturbance over the Rocky Mountain states is causing showers over that section. Lowest pressure reported is 29.96 inches at Modena, Utah. Temperature changes were insignificant nearly everywhere. There was light to heavy frost in the Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia this morning, and in some of the valleys freezing temperatures occurred.

FAMILIES AIDED FOR FEAST OF PASSOVER

Baskets Distributed on Hill Enable Needy to Join In Jewish Observance

With the coming of sundown today, and the ceremony of the Seder is inaugurated throughout the Jewish world, 150 Jewish families of the Hill district will be enabled to join in the traditional ceremony of the Passover through the aid of the Lechem Anlyim Society.

Baskets of meat, fish, vegetables and matzos, the unleavened bread, were distributed to needy Jewish families of the district. The distribution took place in the Congregation Beth Jacob, Epiphany and Townsend streets.

Members of the society who took part in the distribution were Nathan Goldstock, Israel Mervis, Lewis Weinstein, Charles Abrams, Max Epstein, Mrs. I. Backer, H. Heller and Mrs. Anna I. Schwartz.

The Seder is the religious service and dinner in the home. Here the father recounts the story of the Exodus, and every Jew is to imagine that he himself was present at the departure from Egypt. With the second day of the Passover, Jews will begin to count the omer, the measure of barley. This will continue for 49 days. At the end of these seven weeks is celebrated the Pentecost, or the feast of weeks.

CITIZENS' MOVE HINTS COUNTY SURCHARGE

Appeal on Woodside Report Failing to List $200,000 Paid Bowser on Trucking

Forecasting a probable move to surcharge the County Commissioners with huge sums paid out without contract for truck hire and other work, the Citizens' Committee today filed an appeal from the 1931 report of County Controller R. G. Woodside.

One of the objections is that the report fails to include a "just claim" of the county in excess of $200,000 against Watson Bowser & Brother, who were revealed in hearings on the county audit as having received that amount for trucking in connection with the City-County Airport.

15 SIGN APPEAL

Attorney Earl F. Reed, counsel for the committee explaining that no criminal action was involved, added:

"The appeal was taken by members of the Citizens Committee to preserve the right to surcharge any county official for improper disbursement."

Fifteen taxpayers headed by Francis S. Guthrie signed the appeal which objects to the accounts of the Commissioners, Treasurer, delinquent Tax Collector and the Sheriff's office.

MANY SIMILAR CLAIMS

In addition to the Bowser claim, the appeal sets forth that there are many similar claims against various persons, firms and partnerships concerning which the committee does not have complete information at present. The right to file supplemental exceptions is reserved.

Judge Thomas M. Marshall fixed the bond at $1,000, which was provided by the appellants pending a hearing.

BARONET FACES POOR HOUSE

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 20.—(INS.)—Sir James Alexander Russell-Murray, 57-year-old Scottish baronet and a count of the Austrian empire, today notified the local labor exchange he intends to seek admission to the poor house Friday unless he receives work or is placed on the dole by that time.

The baronet, who is living in a small upper room in the poorest section of the city, said he has had only occasional work for the past two years.

The only offers which have been made to him now, he declared, have been offers of marriage. These have been numerous, including one from a wealthy American, he said, adding:

"But I am already married and have grown-up children. I am at the end of my rope."

He is the thirteenth baronet. He has been on the dole, but now his benefits have expired.

'Cuss Word' Tax Proposed to End Depression

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—(AP.)—Unsuccessful in her efforts to keep Saint-Gaudens' famed statue of Diana out of Philadelphia, Mrs. Mary Hubbert Ellis, head of the Youth Protection Committee, offers a novel plan to better economic conditions.

She would revive an obsolete law which makes profanity a misdemeanor and provides for the collection of a 62-cent fine for every swear word uttered.

Speaking from a local broadcasting station, Mrs. Ellis said last night:

"If this law is enforced, we will raise enough money to make the payment of taxes unnecessary and the depression will be a thing of the past."

NO RICH IN U. S., SCHWAB SAYS

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—The rich man has virtually vanished from the American picture, Charles M. Schwab said, and those who once were wealthy are now afraid to look at their ledgers to see if they are worth anything or not.

Schwab, who is chairman of the boar of Bethlehem Steel Corporation and a director of numerous banks and other corporations, included himself in the generalization, he said.

"I have been a very rich man and have always thought that the question of money in my lifetime would never come up. There are no rich in America we stand."

He prophesied better times and better conditions if men "will just go to work and sweat a little."

STORE GUNMAN FLEES WITH $40

A bandit said by his victims to be not more than five feet tall held up a chain store at 901 Chestnut street early today, and escaped with $40.

E. I. Berner, of Elfinwild, manager of the store, and C. Brill, a biscuit company salesman, were in the store when the robber entered. He covered them with a gun, took the money from the register, ordered them to lie face down on the floor and said:

"Don't make any noise or try to follow me for five minutes. My buddy will be waiting outside with a sawed-off shotgun."

Police could find no trace of the robber or his accomplice.

Carney, seeking the Republican nomination for Legislature from the First District, not knowing they were violating a city ordinance.

KAISER INVITED TO U. S. SOIL

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(INS.)—Unless the American State Department raises unexpected objections, former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany may emulate Ponce de Leon and seek the "fountain of youth" in the sunshine of the American West Indies, it was learned today.

Invitations to Wilhelm Hohenzollern to make his permanent home in the Virgin Islands were sent him by two civic bodies of St. Thomas following reports from Doorn, Holland, that Wilhelm's physicians had advised him to go to the West Indies. Wilhelm is 73 and his health is reported to have been affected by the dampness of the Doorn climate.

Administration officials were noncommittal on the matter, but unofficially it was stated this government probably would raise no objections to the former Kaiser's taking up his abode in the Virgin Islands, if the Allied governments do not protest.

Nephew of Thaw Hurt in Plane Crash

WESTWOOD, Mass., April 20.—(AP.)—Edward T. Thaw, Jr., 23, a nephew of Harry K. Thaw, was seriously injured, and two other young men suffered lesser injuries in a crash of their airplane near the Westwood Airport yesterday. Police said they had been stunting and that the engine apparently went dead while the plane was in a dive.

The other two injured were Henry Merriam, of South Braintree, and Clifford Towner, of Boston. Physicians feared Thaw had suffered a fracture of the skull.

Mother of Mrs. Massie May Take Stand For Defense

she loves best was ready today to lay bare the secrets of her tortured soul to save her husband and mother.

Darrow looked to the testimony of Mrs. Massie to convince a mixed race jury that her husband was driven insane by thoughts of what had happened to her.

Clarence Darrow, master of the defense, looked to the testimony of Mrs. Massie to convince a mixed race jury that her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, was driven insane by thoughts of what had happened to her.

Mrs. Massie, shy blonde and pretty, has just passed her 20th birthday and the ordeal of telling again in court the details of the attack by five half-castes, allegedly led by Kahahawai, will be severe.

She has not attended any sessions of the trial as yet, although yesterday it had been expected that she would be present in order to accustom herself to the surroundings.

As Darrow prepared to conclude his case, the prosecution lined up its own alienists to be summoned for rebuttal testimony.

The state will strike at the flat assertion made in court by the defense experts, Drs. Edward Huntington Williams and Thomas J. Orbison, that Lieut. Massie, goaded by thoughts of the attack on his wife, was insane when he shot Kahahawai.

Because Lieut. Massie's mental state is the crux of the entire trial, the state may require at least the remainder of the week to attack the defense structure, Prosecutor John C. Kelley said.

Darrow, however, hoped that it "would all be over" by Saturday, but this seemed most unlikely and the case will probably not go to the jury until the middle of next week.

The question of how long each side will be allowed for arguments has not been discussed yet with Judge Charles S. Davis, although it was generally understood that the time will be unlimited.

ALIENIST ON WAY

Kelley planned to use Dr. Paul Bowers, eminent Los Angeles psychiatrist, who arrives here from the mainland tomorrow, to corroborate the local medical experts of the state, Dr. Stanley D. Porteus and Dr. Robert B. Faris.

Today's first witness will be Dr. Williams, whose direct examination was just concluded as court adjourned yesterday.

Dr. Williams defined Lieut. Massie's condition at the time of the killing as "chemical insanity caused by abnormal functioning of the adrenal glands when under mental distress."

It was not, he said, mere "emotional insanity" nor an "irresistible impulse."

Dr. Orbison called it "delirium with ambulatory automatism—mental derangement."

Both agreed in plain language they meant that Lieut. Massie did not know what he was doing when the fatal shot was fired.

FORM OF AMNESIA

Dr. Williams offered the conjecture that Kahahawai's last words, confessing the attack on Mrs. Massie caused Lieut. Massie to be seized with a form of amnesia.

Dr. Orbison declared that a "mental bomb" exploded and Lieut. Massie was unable to control himself, despite his intention of not using violence in order to clear his wife's name.

Darrow is satisfied that the story drawn from Lieut. Massie on the witness stand made it unnecessary to call Mrs. Fortescue, Lord or Jones to testify.

Voice of Coolidge Damage Suit Factor

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—The voice of Calvin Coolidge has become a subject of deliberation in Supreme Court in a suit for $31,000 damages against the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local No. 3.

Bick, the plaintiff, testified he was suspended from membership in the union and fined $200 after recording the words of the former president for a sound film when he became a director of the New York Life Insurance Company in 1929. He was accused of doing electrical repair work in violation of the union's rules during the recording.

Dry Raid Fugitive Believed Drowned

DES MOINES, Ia., April 20.—(AP.)—Roy Rhodes, 30, was believed to have drowned in the Des Moines River last night when he attempted to swim it to escape city and federal agents who raided a still he was operating on the river bank.

OPPOSE MOTOR FREIGHT LINE

Joseph A. Grimm, 158 Vandergrift avenue, Vandergrift, who wants additional rights to transport freight by motor between Pittsburgh and Saltsburg, found himself opposed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Railways Express and H. F. Muir, of Pittsburgh, when his case was heard by Examiner W. F. Best of the Public Service Commission.

Grimm now operates between Pittsburgh, Apollo and Leechburg and also has a freight service between Vandergrift and Leechburg by way of Manor, Slickville, Avonmore, Salina, Parnassus, New Kensington, North Washington, Vandergrift and Saltsburg. He also has a certificate covering the territory which he desires to extend. Miller's application was heard last week.

Drunken Driver Pushes Auto to Spare Traffic

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 20 (AP).—John Bonack is in custody. Patrolman Albert Dewes will testify that he saw John in the act of shoving down the street. An explanation seemed in order so he asked for one. He quoted John as saying:

"I thought it would be safer for traffic if I'd push it."

John was arrested, shoved and he had an explanation for that too.

"I took off my shoes to keep my footsteps from bothering people."

John was arrested on a charge of being intoxicated but he escaped the more serious allegation of driving while drunk.

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Practical Pattern

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS

There seems to be no end to the delightful treatments given sleeves this season. In this case a slash reveals the arm, and the petit sleeve is held in place with tie ends. Or, if you wish, they may be cropped off at the shoulders as shown in the small back view. The diagonal seaming, cleverly scalloped, is new and mighty smart. This model is simple to make and even the amateur is assured of smart results.

Pattern 2328 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 44. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch fabric, ¾ yard lace.

ROOSEVELT'S BACKERS HIT

Charles Alvin Jones, candidate for an uninstructed delegation to the Democratic convention, asserted today the Roosevelt delegates were trying to becloud the issue of Alfred E. Smith's right to party leadership and the necessity for a change in the Allegheny County chairmanship.

Stating that uninstructed delegate candidates were life-long Democrats, he said:

"If any one of the uninstructed candidates has at any time registered other than as a Democrat for the purpose of a local election, there are hundreds of honest Democrats who will see the reason for such has been a necessary consequence of the way affairs of the Democratic party in Allegheny County have been handled under Guffey-Lawrence control."

RELIEF ON BACK TAXES ASKED

Assuming that Gov. Gifford Pinchot intends to call a special session of the Legislature, the Independent slate of legislative candidates in Allegheny County has adopted a resolution requesting the Governor to give relief to taxpayers who have become delinquent in their real estate imposts.

The Independents would have legislation passed by which the township commissioners and supervisors of the various townships, the county commissioners of the counties or the councils of boroughs and cities may by special ordinances relieve the taxpayers of increasing interest charges, penalties, advertising charges and lien costs in all cases of taxes or assessments gone delinquent within the past three years and annually hereafter in emergencies like the present one.

Instead of the present 10 per cent delinquent penalty, the Independents advise a charge of one-half per cent the first month and the same amount in succeeding months until a total of 6 per cent is reached. Partial payment for taxes and delinquencies also is asked.

NEGLEY READY TO CALL KLINE FOR TRIAL

Mayor and Succop Will Not Seek New Venue Change, Defense Counsel Says

District Attorney Edgar H. Negley, of Butler, said today he was ready to call Mayor Charles H. Kline and his deposed Director of Supplies, Bertram L. Succop, for trial, following announcement by counsel for the defendants that they would not seek a second change of venue.

Negley said that after he had assisted in the selection of a jury he would turn the prosecution of the defendants over to District Attorney Andrew T. Park, of Allegheny county, and the latter's first assistant, George P. Langfitt. Park will appoint Earl F. Reed an assistant district attorney.

Reed acted as counsel for the Citizens Committee in probing the city's financial affairs, resulting in the indictment of Kline and Succop for misbehavior in office.

Decision not to ask for a change of venue was announced yesterday by Charles B. Prichard and Edward G. Coll following a conference with the mayor. Coll said:

"We are not considering a plea for a second change in venue. We are prepared to go to trial in Butler as scheduled."

Prichard said:

"Another change in venue never entered my mind. We are prepared to stand trial when and where the court ordered."

REGULARS WILL GUARD RETURNS

Regular Republican organization watchers will be permitted to guard official election returns where they are brought into the commissioners' office following the primary next Tuesday, County Commissioners Charles G. McGovern and C. M. Barr announced late yesterday.

Request for permission to have representatives in the commissioners' office came from William H. Coleman, county campaign manager of the "regular" organization. The request was made by Gilbert C. Cloonan, chief of the elections bureau under the former county commissioners, who refused permission to the Independents for such guards until a court order was obtained.

Talking big and being really ambitious are two different matters.

Girls are often convinced that a young man who entertains them lavishly when he can and shouts in terms of "big dough" is going to be a great success.

They do not consider how unwilling he is to work and how ready he is to borrow.

To marry such a one will mean to be at times living in high style and at other times being flat broke.

The young man who does not pretend to be more than he is, is the better matrimonial choice.

He is steady and saving and will make slower but surer progress to a secure and serenely happy future.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Psychics Are Muzzled

Psychics, sometimes spelled sychics, are bids of misleading character intended to accomplish some definite and useful purpose through their psychological effect upon one or both opponents. Their most common purpose is to lure an opponent into a bad bid, a losing lead or a poor play through a misconception concerning where the psychic bidder's strength really lies.

Like nearly every other feature of the game, the idea is seen out. Under other names various players in the past have developed more or less perfect systems of utilizing these bids, sometimes to their great advantage. Contract Bridge has produced a brand of psychics unknown to Auction players: bids more puzzling for opponents and more dangerous for partners. Pushed beyond reason this style of bidding becomes a nuisance, and the inveterate psychic bidder is regarded as a pest by many partners. For those reasons many clubs frown upon the use of misleading bids. The following notice, posted by the Knickerbocker Whist Club, December 24, 1931, expresses the sentiment felt in many other card circles:

Notice to Psych... Bidders!

Many players object to the use by their partners of Psychic Bids, and in such cases uncompensated losses which result shatter the partnership morale and cause feelings of annoyance. Complaints having been made, the Board of Trustees requests that every member refrain from making bids which could be classified as psychics, whenever there is the possibility that his partner might object and particularly when playing as a partner with a new member or with a guest of the club.

Because of the difficulty of defining and always identifying psychic bids, the board relies upon the courtesy of members to observe this request in the spirit and for the purpose of which it is made.

In the majority of cases psychic bids produce no result not obtainable by standard bidding. Many of our most clever advocates of this type of bid have stated that they are convinced that they are almost useless against a pair bidding upon values held, that their most effective use is against other psychic bidders, that in the long run except to stop bids for slams, and not even that against feature showers, it is a question whether psychics do not lose more points than they win.

CAN Z GO GAME?

Z bids 4 Spades on the hand shown below, and he was doubled by A. Can the contract be fulfilled against any defense open to A-B? The answer will appear on Friday.

Household Hints

Do not keep canned provisions in the cans after being opened. The air renders them unwholesome.

The most pleasant breakfast nook on a spicy autumn morning is a sunny porch! The doors and windows may be thrown open to receive the warmth from out-of-doors.

A little glycerin well rubbed over freshly cleaned windows or mirrors will prevent them clouding over in damp and foggy weather. This hint can also be extended to spectacles when the wearer is forced to stand over steaming hot water when washing up crockery, etc.

Wedding Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Will you tell me the correct form of wedding announcements? That is, an announcement after the wedding had taken place. The wedding will be in another city, and I think that the announcement should be sent out the day of our wedding if not before. Am I correct?

2—Would it be appropriate to send flowers to my future in-laws, who in this case are her uncle and aunt, and who will not be present at the wedding, since it is to be an elopement?

W. R. W.

1—The announcements should be all ready to be sent out directly after the ceremony has been performed. And remember that on the announcement should be engraved the city in which the marriage is performed and the date on which it is performed.

2—Yes.

Shower Hostess

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it considered good form for a young woman to give a shower for her engaged sister?

2. After attending a dinner or a bridge, or an evening at a friend's home, should one telephone or send a note soon after to the hostess, thanking her for the entertainment?

MARY.

1. A shower that is planned by a close relative of the bride or groom, a mother or a sister, for instance, is apt to be looked at a bit askance, as a too obvious bid for gifts. It is, I am sure that you will admit, more appropriate if a group of the bride's close friends, her club, for instance, plan such a shower.

2. Although the making of such a gesture of appreciation is not a strict social necessity, there are few things in social life more charming and gracious than this expression of appreciation of hospitality. When we stop to think how much we like to receive these messages after we have given a party, we realize how delightful it is!

Why Wait for Toothache—Have Teeth X-Rayed Now!

Dr. Copeland

Few and startling theories about teeth and good health were presented at a recent medical and dental convention. In the history of medicine and dentistry in New York this was the first conference of this sort. At this meeting more than four thousand dentists and doctors met to discuss health problems.

Diseased teeth are the root of many of our body ailments. Diseases such as arthritis, rheumatism, neuritis, kidney and intestinal and lung diseases, as well as certain mental disorders, have been traced to diseased teeth.

In former years it was believed that if the teeth were kept clean they would be healthy. It is now known that to have perfect teeth the diet is just as important as the daily cleansing of the teeth.

Today too many foods are lacking in the right substances. These foods usually require little chewing and therefore promotes decay of teeth. The teeth of primitive people were strong and hard. They did not take care of their teeth but they had their ate was coarse and required thorough chewing.

A diet lacking in thousand important vitamins is thought to be decayed and diseased teeth. It is essential that an adequate supply of lime, phosphorus and vitamins A, C and D be included in the daily diet. It is for this reason that milk is of so important a food. A well balanced diet containing raw fruits and vegetables with an abundance of fresh fruits, vegetables and milk is essential to healthy teeth.

Teeth that are infected are a menace to good health. Germs at work in the teeth and neighboring structures are capable of producing infection elsewhere in the body. Infected teeth should be extracted. Often there is no pain in these cases and the diseased tooth is overlooked until serious damage to the body has resulted.

It is advisable to X-ray the teeth at periodic intervals. By this means unsuspected diseased teeth can be detected. Bear in mind that daily brushing of the teeth is important but that this alone will not prevent infection and decay.

It has been estimated that 85 per cent of the children of New York City have dental cavities and infected teeth. This percentage is high. It is serious when one realizes that if adequate measures are not taken in childhood, physical disablement in some form or other will be found in adult life.

Fortunately, the medical and dental professions now realize the relationship of diseased teeth to poor health. Great benefit is sure to be derived from the co-operation of the dentist and doctor. It is hoped that this latest campaign will decrease the number of constitutional ailments caused by defective teeth.

Women said:

YOU CAN'T USE ONE HOUSEHOLD SOAP FOR EVERYTHING

BUT they changed their minds when they used the New Oxydol

WHAT a pitiful story kitchen shelves tell of women's efforts to lighten the burden of housework—shelves crowded with soaps and powders supposed to make their work easier.

But there is one soap to do that now—the amazing New Oxydol does everything for you!

It's easy on hands, easy on clothes and wonderful for dishes. It does more work because it makes 50% more suds—richer, quicker, more lasting suds. Clean smelling suds that float dirt out of clothes and keep it out so clothes are snowy white—suds that cut grease on dishes so they rinse sparkling clean—suds that lighten all your housework.

Try this new soap. Use enough to make rich suds—it never balls up or leaves a scum—just thick foamy suds in hard water or soft water turned hard by dirty clothes or dishes. Ask your grocer today for a package of Oxydol.

KOTEX at new low price

WOMEN! Kotex can now be bought at a price in tune with the times. Kotex—the original, the safe, tested sanitary protection!

No question mark hovers over Kotex. No doubt as to how it was made, under what conditions.

Kotex is made and kept clean. Materials are tested and retested. Workers are uniformed. Factories are spotless. Even the air is washed.

Trained eyes inspect every single Kotex pad as it is machine-cut, folded, packed. For your safety and protection, ask for Kotex. You know this pad is safe. Doctors, nurses, know it, too. More than 24,000,000 Kotex pads were used in American hospitals alone last year.

Kotex stays soft. It's highly absorbent; disposable. Made to protect when worn on either side.

Genuine Kotex Sanitary Napkins now cost less

Don't let them count you out!

Better still—why not bring out the hidden beauty in your skin

"I am so happy my skin is now clear"

"It was all simple too . . . after I had the good sense to reason it out—now I am overjoyed because I not only have a clear skin, but my system is strengthened . . . and I again mingle with my friends and associates with confidence."

Medical authorities say that skin conditions commonly manifest themselves when the system is in a weakened and "run-down" condition . . . that the skin must have a ratio of body balance . . . must have resistance from within.

If you are troubled with pimples, boils or a similar skin disorder or require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—besides its general tonic properties, it regenerates hemoglobin and restores red cells in the blood.

S.S.S. helpfulness is illustrated by this fact—our records show that nearly one half of those who have taken it, for the first time, do so upon the recommendation of some friend who has been benefited. Can there be any stronger recommendation for its merit and usefulness than this?

Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. S.S.S. may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

S.S.S. builds sturdy health

Climax Renews Dingy Walls..... for a few cents per Room.....

If you don't feel like spending the money to re-paper or re-decorate your home this year—remember the Climax way is the "economy way" of renewing your walls. It does a beautiful job on wallpaper, sanitas, and painted antique or textured plaster. Flat tone finishes respond wonderfully to the Climax treatment. You can clean window shades and tapestries with it, too. It removes the dirt—doesn't rub it in. But don't take chances with unproved methods (Climax costs so little, anyhow)—get Climax in the blue can, and follow the simple, safe directions.

Alice F. Burley's Marriage Is Announced

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Burley, of Riverview Drive, New Kensington, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Alice Florence Burley, to Dr. Charles H. Gilmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Gilmore, of Walnut street, East End, which took place on July 4, 1931, in Ebensburg. Officiating was the Rev. Mrs. Enoch Rauh Makes Appeal For Needy

An appeal to help the Family-Help-Family campaign and to share with the needy was made to Pittsburgh women today by Mrs. Enoch Rauh, Director of the City Department of Welfare. Mrs. Rauh said:

Mrs. Rauh

"If the citizens of Pittsburgh could but spend one day in the office of the Department of Public Welfare and see the tragedies that stalk through its offices—if they could see the people who plead for just a little food, fuel, clothing and shelter and who ask just to live—they would not need urging to help the Family-Help-Family plan and share a tiny part of their family's surplus with our city's dependent citizens, whose homes are cheerless and unhappy, whose mental anguish and physical sufferings are often indescribable.

"Sacrifice is a relative term—but in these soul-searing times no one can feel that he has done his duty unless he helps someone crying out for help."

PRINTED FABRICS FOR GENERAL WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 20 — You should figure on a figured frock this spring if you want your wardrobe to be a representative one. If you aren't addicted to prints, then choose a frock with an embroidered motif. For general wear, patterned fabrics seem to be much liked, as they suggest something of the easy, casual look that such clothes should possess. The prints shown up to now seem very modest affairs. The houses are watching the reaction of women to prints before they make many models. Lots of interest is shown in fabrics with very widely spaced small motifs, this scattered pattern being a good compromise between the monotoned frock and the print. As yet there are no very radical departures in the mode. Wearable clothes that fit unobtrusively into the sartorial scheme are in the majority; clothes that are easy to wear and yet retain that exclusive air. Such frocks can be worn and worn without ever becoming stale or losing their appeal. Trimming is reduced to a minimum. Piecings and tucks give embellishment and at the same time determine the silhouette.

* * *

AS AN EXAMPLE of the type of figured frocks that are being promoted here we are sending you a sketch of a printed model. The print is typical of the designs that dressmakers are using to lure us back to the patterned frock again. Lucile Paray makes it of black crepe de chine with a small black and white motif, printed at widely spaced intervals. The front of the bodice has an inset of the fabric draped in cowl effect and set in between pipings of white crepe.

PAROLED MAN'S CLAIMS DENIED

Joseph Toussaint, 24, of Medford, Mass., who carried press notices proclaiming him the "world's undefeated ankle dancer," and was placed upon probation for two years by the Federal District Court, March 22, is wanted now by the court because of alleged false statements made when he pleaded guilty of transporting a stolen automobile from Providence, R. I., to Beaver Falls.

When arraigned Toussaint said he was the sole support of his invalid mother and sister, that he was married and that his probation term would not affect his parole from the Massachusetts Reformatory. Probation officer George G. O'Brien, in a petition for a bench warrant, averred Toussaint was not married and did not support his mother and sister.

The petition also cited that Massachusetts Board of Pardons had revoked his parole.

ATTACK ON VOTE LIST RENEWED

Smith charged Capo February 25 returned his list to the County Commissioners bearing a great number of names of persons not now residing in the district and who did not reside in it February 23 and 24. A hearing was fixed for Friday.

Circus Star!

Marion Davies portrays a circus trapeze artist who falls in love with a bishop in "Polly of the Circus," which opens today on the Sheridan Square screen.

'Grand Hotel' For Aldine

"Grand Hotel," which has just left us as a flesh and blood stage play, will return to the shadow next Monday when it will open in the Aldine screen as a road show. Two performances will be given daily and all seats will be reserved.

The film version of this Vicki Baum novel and play boasts what is hoped to be an all-star cast ever assembled for the screen. Greta Garbo will be seen in the role of Grushinskaya, the dancer played here on the stage by Eugenie Leontovich. Lionel Barrymore will take the role of Kringelein, in which Sam Jaffe scored here. John Barrymore will be Baron Von Gaigern, and Wallace Beery will portray the capitalist Preysing. Joan Crawford has the part of the stenographer, Flaemmchen, and Lewis Stone will characterize the doctor. Tully Marshall and Jean Hersholt also will be prominent in the roster. The screen is an M-G-M production. The "Grand Hotel" of the screen is directed by Edmund Goulding.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

BURIED SOMEWHERE in my desk is a contribution from one of my seven readers. Before I used the story I wanted to credit the proper source. But alas! Now that I want the thing I can't find it—which is the way this life of ours seems to go. At any rate, the contributor will know that my heart was in the right place. And, in these surprising days, that is at least something.

As I remember the yarn, it concerned a group of poor men who were brought before a local magistrate and charged with peddling without a license. There was a monotonous sameness about each one of the proceedings. As each accused man was brought before the bench the judge would gaze down very sleepily and the clerk would drone his words.

"Moses Rabinowitz," he would say, "you are charged by Officer Walsh, of the Sixth Precinct, with selling ripe figs in front of the premises at 302 West Blank street. Upon investigation, it was learned that you were selling said figs without the proper license. How do you plead, guilty or not guilty?"

The peddler would not his head.

"Guilty," he would reply.

The judge would stir slightly.

"Three dollars or three days," he would murmur. "Next case."

This went on for some time. There was no change in the routine until one chap with big eyes was brought before the bench. The magistrate listened to the familiar words and heard the peddler say he was guilty. He nodded.

"Same as the others," was his pronouncement. "Three dollars or three days."

The others had shuffled off without comment. This man hesitated for a moment.

"Please Your Honor," he muttered, "could I say something?"

"Go ahead," nodded the judge.

The peddler talked as though the tears would flow at any moment. He clasped and unclasped his hands. His expression was one of the utmost sadness.

"Your Honor," he cried, "I'm a very poor man. My wife and children have nothing to eat. Take my word for it, judge, I'm the sorriest man in the world about this whole thing.

"You have just given me a sentence of $3 or three days. Do you think I would be peddling if I knew that such a thing was staring me in the face? For a poor man, judge, won't you have a little pity?"

The magistrate rubbed his chin.

"I am always ready to do the best I can," he replied. "What do you want me to do for you?"

The peddled shrugged his shoulders.

"If I go to jail," he said, "it becomes very hard on my wife and my children. Every hour I'm not working means less bread for them to eat. For them, your honor, please have mercy. I must keep working."

"You gave the others $3 or three days. You gave it to me too. But couldn't you, in my case, make it $1 or one day?"

The magistrate's heart was touched.

"All right," he said. "I'll change your fine. In your case it's $1 or one day."

The peddler beamed.

"That's fine, judge!" he cried happily. "I'll take the day!"...

* * *

A COUPLE of chorines were talking it over.

"Why should I worry about money?" cried the first complacently. "I have a brother and an uncle who are both very wealthy. When I need money, all I do is ask one of them for some. And sometimes both."

The second damsel nodded.

"I see," she murmured. "The kin you love to touch."...

* * *

SEVERAL YEARS back, a large New York concern that operated a chain of stores decided to branch off into an entirely different field. They made a diligent search, and finally hired a young man to take charge of the operation of these stores. His work was to include the purchasing, merchandising, maintenance and the like.

The young man proved to be unusually capable. He labored mightily to produce results, and he succeeded very well. As time went on, his superiors kept opening additional units. And all as a result of the young man's industry and initiative.

During the early months of 1929, when he was studying the operating accounts of his stores, the young man discovered a leakage that he was unable to trace. He immediately attributed the situation to dishonesty in the ranks and raced to his employer with the suggestion that they permit him to employ a detective agency to check his sales force and their sales in his stores.

"Not only do I request you to hire an agency for this occasion," he asserted, "but I earnestly recommend that you keep these detectives permanently. It's the only effective safeguard against human frailties. I trust you see it my way."

The executives couldn't see it that way at all. They said simply that they did not wish to make this extra expenditure, and that the inside crooks would certainly be caught very shortly without any outside help. The young man shrugged his shoulders.

"If that's the way you feel about it," he said, "I will not ask you to spend the money. But I want your permission for one thing. I want to hire this agency myself—and pay them from my own pocket for one month. I merely want to convince you of the good that must come of it."

The executives discussed the matter among themselves for a few moments and then notified the young man that he had their permission to invest his own money. Like most executives, they were big-hearted that way. The agency was hired—and the results obtained in a short period were an absolute revelation. The officials were finally convinced, and the agency was employed on a permanent basis.

The young man was never repaid for the money he had paid for the convincing. But he was happy just the same. He now had a detective system that would save his company a great deal of money in the long run. There are chaps like that, you know. I've never met any, of course, but I've heard about them...

Several weeks ago, the president of the company called in the head of the agency and asked him to make a secret investigation of the company's various purchasing departments. With the utmost quiet, the detective work was immediately begun.

You know the answer, I suppose. Well, you're right. The young man now faces a lengthy jail term. A big love affair had caused him to gamble heavily with the firm's money—and the theft was expertly uncovered by the agency he had hired and paid for several years back!...

POLITICS
Muddling Grows Apace In 32d Congressional
—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mark Shields

Out in the Thirty-second Congressional District the muddling of factional lines grows apace. Little more than a week ago County Commissioner C. M. Barr, Independent leader, announced at a meeting in Frick school, Fourth Ward, that the Independents would support Congressman P. J. Sullivan, engaged in a doughty tussle with former Congressman John Morin and Councilman M. J. Muldowney, the latter backed by Senator James J. Coyne.

Now the executive committee of the Independent Republican organization in the ward announces there has been no indorsement of Sullivan or any one else. Meanwhile, publicity about Sullivan is sent out from downtown Independent headquarters in the Magee Building, showing he is approved there.

It will be recalled that in the last county election Independents predicted Sullivan would help Barr against David L. Lawrence, Democrat, backed by Coyne. This help materialized in only a few districts. Now Sullivan is understood to be promising assistance to E. J. Wuerthle, running against Coyne for the Senate. That is sufficient to earn him the sympathy of Barr.

Though against Coyne, Sullivan will support the state ticket of the regular organization, with the exception of Frank Baldwin for Auditor General. He prefers Ralph Flinn for this position. He is actively for Judge Joseph Stadtfeld for the Superior Court, and will aid Judge Robert Gawthrop and former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James for the other two Superior Court places, dropping Judge William M. Parker, of Venango County, Pinchot candidate who is enthusiastically indorsed by Barr.

* * *

Mayor, Hailed as Boss Playing Small Part

Some time ago Barr is understood to have solicited the aid of John Verona in the Third Ward against Coyne. Intimations are that this effort has been unsuccessful. Mayor Kline persuading Verona to take no part in the fight on the Senator. What the Mayor has done has been done quietly.

Seldom in Pittsburgh politics has a Mayor looked upon as a supreme boss as was Kline, played so small a part in a campaign. The Mayor's followers are doing pretty much as they please throughout the city with the exception of the Coyne Senatorial district, where it is evident pressure is being exerted to clear the path of the Oaklander to re-election.

Whether this restricted assistance to Coyne will be expanded to embrace aid for Muldowney in the same section has been one of the puzzles of politics. Recently there have been surface indications that, as between Sullivan and Muldowney, the Mayor would favor the latter.

The repudiation of the Fourth Ward Independents of Barr's indorsement of Sullivan, made, they say, "without the knowledge, authority or consent of the majority members of the committee," does not presage any real rift in the district. Such contradictions are bound to occur in an Independent movement.

Father James R. Cox is preparing for the November election. His primary campaign speeches in behalf of Attorney Henry Ellenbogan, Congressional candidate in the Thirty-third District, and State Representative Matthew Dunn in the Thirty-fourth, are but a prelude to activity in the fall.

* * *

Cox Speaks Nightly For Both Candidates

Father Cox is speaking nightly in behalf of both candidates, and the meetings are big and enthusiastic. Some weeks ago Father Cox had pre-empted the "Jobless Party" label for the November election, and both Ellenbogen and Dunn may be candidates under that banner, should either or both be defeated in the primary. That is something the future and the voters must decide.

In the energy and infectious enthusiasm of Father Cox there is, however, considerable food for reflection by old party leaders as they look forward to the general election. He can cause them some extremely uneasy moments if either or both parties fail to offer a program he believes suitable to the needs of the day.

The regular organization is having a ruction of its own out in the Twelfth Legislative district which lies within the Thirty-fourth Congressional District. One of the candidates for delegate to the national convention is James H. Duff, of Carnegie. A candidate for the Legislature is Eddie Ray.

Ray had hopes of getting on the organization Legislative slate, but when the four favored names appeared his was not among them. Duff is generally credited with keeping him off in favor of Robert K. Boyer. "That has not tended to soothe Ray, who is doing Duff, one of the regular delegate choices, no good as he travels among his friends.

This is a district with more than the usual amount of Independent thought and action, and William S. Haddock, an independent delegate candidate, is a factor powerful enough to challenge a united organization front.

Merchants Prepare for New Subway Hearing

DIVISION OF RELIEF FUNDS UP TO COURT

HEARING SET TOMORROW ON SUBWAY
Snodgrass Proposal Rejected, Commission Faces Herron Ultimatum for New Plan

With the subway plan of Edward Snodgrass, Jr., and Norman F. Brown rejected by the City Transit Commission, business and civic organizations were meeting today to decide the attitude they will take at a public hearing scheduled for tomorrow at 2 p. m. before City Council.

Council President John S. Herron has asked the commission to present its supplemental report before the hearing. He has already declared that if the commission rejects one subway plan it should present another or the subway project be abandoned.

MEETINGS SET

Edgar J. Kaufmann called a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association for today to discuss the subway. A committee of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board also was to discuss the subway problem. It includes Charles F. Chubb, Edward F. Daume, R. L. McKallip and Herbert A. Keenan.

The Pittsburgh Building Owners' and Managers' Association has gone on record with Council against the subway unless a satisfactory agreement can be made with the Pittsburgh Railways Company and guaranteed by the Philadelphia Company.

James W. Bamford, chairman of the tax committee of the Building Owners, said last night:

"The rental paid by the railways company should be at least large enough to carry the bond interest on the subway.

SENTIMENT SOUGHT

City Council has taken action to determine definitely the attitude of executives of the Pittsburgh Railways Company toward the subway. On motion of Charles Anderson, Council voted to ask railways officials whether the company will use a subway if one is built, and what rental they are willing to pay. Anderson said:

"The only customer we can have is the Pittsburgh Railways Company. I am very much concerned about who will use the subway if we are going to spend $6,000,000 for it, and I want to know how much they will pay for it."

COUNCILMEN DISAGREE

Councilman W. Y. English had previously suggested that the subway be put up for a referendum vote. Councilman Robert Garland objected to this step because there was nothing to indicate how much revenue can be derived from the subway for the city.

The Transit Commission's report, restricted to a criticism of the Brown-Snodgrass plan, was read to Council by City Clerk Robert Clark. It rejected the plan on the grounds that a longer subway under Grant street would not be practical from an operating standpoint, and could not be built with the $5,880,000 available.

Officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company are averse, the report said, to the wholesale withdrawal of the present service from the business center.

City Studies Legion 30-Hour Work Plan

The City Law Department today was studying the legality of a plan devised by the American Legion's "Back-to-Work" committee, and offered to Council, by which all laborers hired by city contractors would be placed on a 30-hour week basis.

The Legion maintains hundreds of additional men would be given employment and kept from starvation by the plan. Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt said his report would be ready within the next few days.

SEEK SANCTION FOR PACT OF CITY, COUNTY
Agreement for '50-50 Split' Backed by Commissioners At Bedside of McGovern

Approval of Common Pleas Court was asked today of the "50-50" split of the $483,460 Talbot bill relief funds which city and county officials agreed upon at a meeting yesterday climaxed by a special session of the County Commissioners at the bedside of Chairman Charles C. McGovern in the Sewickley Hospital.

Mortimer B. Lesher, special counsel of the commissioners, today presented a petition to Presiding Judge James R. Macfarlane asking for the division. Judge Macfarlane indicated he was agreeable to the division but sent the petition to the other jurists for their opinion.

The money represents the first two installments of the sum due the county under the Talbot bill. The money was to be divided among the municipalities of the county on the basis of unemployment as compared with the total population. However, the County Commissioners, City Council, the City and County Controllers and the Poor Board and Welfare Department have approved a "50-50" split.

DIVISION PLANNED

County Treasurer Robert S. Cain probably will be ordered to divide the money between the County Poor Directors and the City Welfare Department. Then, it is expected, both agencies will turn the money over to the Allegheny County Emergency Association for distribution to the needy as was done recently when the city and county both made appropriations of $260,000.

A warning to keep a close check on expenditure of the state funds was issued in Harrisburg today by Mrs. Alice Liveright, State Secretary of Welfare. She said the Commissioners must determine the number of unemployed in communities and allocate the funds in proportion to the total county unemployment as compiled by the Department of Labor and Industry. The courts should be asked to adjudicate all disputes, she advised.

WALDSCHMIDT DISSENTS

Lesher was to be accompanied into court by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and Attorney Harry McIntosh, counsel for the County Poor Directors. Waldschmidt yesterday opposed the even division of the money, declaring the number of needy in the city was greater and more complete facilities had been developed for distributing the money there. He favored the city getting 58 per cent and the county 42 per cent. He put the proposition to Council and was directed to go along on the 50-50 split.

The agreement was reached at a conference in the office of the County Commissioners yesterday, attended by Lesher, McIntosh, Waldschmidt, Controllers Robert Woodside and James P. Kerr, Dr. J. Clyde Miller, member of the Poor Board, County Solicitor J. P. Fife and Commissioner C. M. Barr. County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield is out of the city. After an agreement had been reached Commissioner Barr and the Commissioner's clerk, W. T. Rees, went to McGovern's bedside, where the two Commissioners held a meeting and supported the action.

Distribution of the money by the Emergency Association would bolster its straitened finances. With 24,727 families still to be cared for, workers in the family-help-family campaign looked forward to a substantial increase in their reports tomorrow. Today finds were received to care for an additional 343 families.

BOY, 5, BURNED IN 'GAS' BLAST

Five-year-old Eugene Rhodes, rear of 222 Mansion street, Glenwood, today was nursing burns on his face and arms, suffered when the gasoline tank of an automobile exploded in the rear of his home last night.

The explosion occurred, police said, when the boy struck a match to see if there was any gasoline in the tank. The tank was empty, but the fumes exploded, ripping the metal and igniting Eugene's clothing.

The victim's father, Lewis Rhodes, repairing another machine at the time, beat out the flames and took him to the office of Dr. N. S. Rubin, 5327 Second avenue.

The damaged automobile belonged to a friend who asked Rhodes to repair it.

Aliquippa Boy, 5, Run Down by Auto

Alfred Bull, 5, of 1820 Main street, Aliquippa, was in a serious condition in Rochester General Hospital, Rochester, today with a fractured left hip and severe lacerations of the face, head and body, suffered when he ran in front of an automobile near his home last night, police reported.

25th Anniversary Cited in Annual Report

Pittsburgh again stepped into the spotlight of the scientific world today with the informal announcement of the silver anniversary of the idea behind the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research. Twenty-five years have passed since Robert Kennedy Duncan, father of the institute, founded his first fellowship, it is pointed out in the annual report of the institute published today.

The effect of the present economic situation has been to stimulate research, according to a tabulation of the past year's results.

In the hunt for new things in the world of science, researches during the year ranged from studies in smoke to investigations of iodine. As a result of one study, a new branch of manufacture has been set up within the year for producing "Plaskon," a heat-reactive molding compound developed by A. M. Howald on the Nitrogenous Resins Fellowship.

Only recently A. W. Coffman announced his discovery of Robertson Bonded Metal, in which felted materials are cemented to steel with heat and pressure, becoming part of the steel itself, utilizing metals as adhesives.

A summary of the year's work includes 22 United States patents and 33 foreign patents issued to fellows, publication of two books, 39 research reports, and 33 other papers.

Eight new fellowships began operation during the year in steel plate, Portland cement, yeast and confectionery.

East End Women Unite For Family Aid Drive

The East End section of the women's division of the Family-Help-Family campaign got under way at a meeting in Carnegie Music Hall yesterday. Women from 12 East End district wards received final instructions. A luncheon meeting in the William Penn Hotel Monday will open the city-wide women's canvass. Other district meetings are to be held in the meantime.

Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, in charge of the East End section, presided. Among the speakers were the Rev. Albert E. Day, of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church; the Rev. Robert A. Speaking of the need of support of such a movement, Dr. MacGowan said:

"Some people are only happy when they are poor. 'If this is the case, why should we help them?' you say. We should because there are those going among them now, putting mischief into their minds and guns into their hands."

BRAKE, SWITCH FIRMS MERGE STAFF HEADS

Rowan Becomes President, Humphrey Director in Westinghouse Merger

By GEORGE H SNYDER

Charles A. Rowan today became president of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company and A. L. Humphrey president for 13 years, assumed the newly created post of executive director.

The change in officials was made as a part of a program to consolidate the managerial staff of Westinghouse Air Brake and its subsidiary, the Union Switch and Signal Company. Rowan, formerly was executive vice president of the parent company and vice president of the subsidiary.

BOARDS IDENTICAL

To complete the consolidation of the two groups of officers, G. A. Blackmore, president and general manager of Union Switch and Signal, was elected a director and vice president of the Air Brake Company. S. G. Down, vice president of Westinghouse Air Brake, was made a director of Union Switch and Signal, which creates identical boards of directors for the two organizations.

Humphrey has served the Westinghouse Air Brake Company for almost 40 years. His early business career was with railroads in the West. He came to the Air Brake company in 1903 as a member of the western district staff, headquarters in Chicago. He was transferred to the general offices at Wilmerding in 1905 as general sales manager. He was elected vice president and general manager in 1910, a director in 1915 and president in 1919.

CAREER OF PRESIDENT

Rowan is a native of Western Pennsylvania. He started his business career with the East Pittsburgh Improvement Company, a Westinghouse organization. He became assistant auditor of Westinghouse Air Brake in 1903. He was successively advanced to auditor in 1910, controller in 1916, vice president and controller in 1919 and president of Westinghouse International Brake and Signal Company in 1927, when he was transferred to Belgium. He returned to this country in 1930 to take up his duties as executive vice president.

Blackmore is a native of Wilkinsburg who obtained a position as office boy with the Union Switch and Signal Company after his graduation from high school in 1896. In 1904 he was in charge of the installation of interlocking signals in the Interborough Subway in New York. After advancing through many positions with Union Switch and Signal, he was made vice president in 1917 and president in 1929.

MUSIC

Dramamount Singers

SCHENLEY BALLROOM

T. Carl Whitmer's Dramamount Singers gave their fourth annual concert in Schenley ballroom last night before the most encouraging audience. This group revives madrigal and church music of the renaissance, but also the English, French and German classicists of the Eighteenth Century. In the midst of these old melodies comes an up-to-date work of Whitmer's, and I believe it enhanced by its proximity.

Mr. Lissfelt

His choral triptych, of which two parts were sung, "Eternity and Love," is made for small chorus and solo singers, and last night was accompanied by the Fillion String Ensemble, a worthy background for the poem. It is a paean to One and Love in text and music the most consistently fluent and ingenious work we have heard from Whitmer, and which would bear repeated hearings.

It seems to come under the influence of Richard Strauss' "Heldenleben." The vocal line is more naturally declamatory than we are accustomed from this writer, and, while there are naive settings for phrases and words, there are longer periods in the music which unify the entire work. Carrie Maser, Chester Sterling and Warren Kinder sang the solo parts, an extremely difficult task.

The tone of the chorus began to blend more successfully toward the French operatic music and Bach's cantata. These singers are solo singers and last night seemed not too happy in the ensemble.

Samuel Murphy sang in fine spirit a lively song of Campion, and Alta Schulz again demonstrated her fine musicianship in the contralto solo from the "Christmas Oratorio." Mr. Whitmer played accompaniments and directed the choir. Ferdinand Fillion directed the string ensemble.

SIMPLE WAY ALL ENGLAND FOLLOWS TO GROW THIN

Spreading Like Wildfire Here

Recently Brought to This Country from England It Enables the Average Fat Person to Lose 6 or 7 More Pounds Weekly Without Starvation or One Extra Step of Exercise

It seems that the British have found a way to ring off excess fat, that's the dream of every fat person. That is to ring it off without starving, without tiring exercise.

Under an extraordinarily simple and pleasant regimen, discovered there, the average fat person loses as much as six to ten pounds weekly. No aching muscles, no weakness or depression. Returning travelers from Europe talked so much about it, that it has now been brought to this country. Anyone can follow it, so if you want to get thin, here's your chance.

Eat, Sleep, Drink and Grow Thin Doing Only This

All the method involves is a glass of water before breakfast, to clear the intestines and tone the system, and a few minor changes in your diet.

Here is what you do. Tear this article out and save it, so you won't forget.

Before Breakfast. Drink an ordinary tumbler full of cool water in which you've added a teaspoon of effervescent salt. (Get the brand named "Andrews" at any drug store.) This to eliminate the usual curse of fat people, accumulated poisons and bloat. Also to cut the moisture weight of your body—sometimes as much as three pounds in one day.

At Meals. Cut out ONLY fat meats. Eat your usual quantity of lean meats and ADD a double supply of green vegetables—spinach, cabbage, fresh peas, lettuce, etc. Then for dessert, shift from pastry and cake to FRESH FRUIT. The more you eat of these the better. They're super-nourishing vitamin foods.

Drink tons if you like them, sauerkraut juice, tomato juice or orange juice "cocktails" before lunch and supper. Eat fresh fruit, too, before bed if you like to eat before retiring.

That's all you do. No wonder England and all of Europe is cheering this discovery. You lose weight day by day, week by week, usually from six or seven pounds weekly to even as much as ten pounds, and feel amazingly more alert and active while you are. Doctors of world knowledge widely endorse this way. The salt tones and clears the system. The vitamin foods take the place of those that build weight and fat, and thus fat goes like magic.

Embark on the Great Adventure of getting thin today. Ask your doctor about this if you wish to be doubly sure this is the simplest, safest way to lose embarrassing bulk. You can get Andrews Effervescent Salt at any drug store for a few cents.

PHOTOS TAKEN IN GREECE ON EXHIBIT

Unusual Views Are Shown In Whitaker Collection; Create New Impression

By PENELOPE REDD

An exhibition of photographs made in Greece by Charles Harris Whitaker is on view until the end of the week at Grogan's. When Charles Whitaker, an architect of high standing, retired from active work after a brilliant career as editor of the Journal of the American Institute of Architects, as one of the leaders in the housing movement, and as an associate of the late Bertram Goodhue, he journeyed to Greece.

Miss Redd

To his foundation of professional knowledge, as substantial as the Acropolis on which he focused his camera, he brought other qualities that render these photographs of great import.

Mr. Whitaker avoided the technical legerdemain with which modern photographers secure compelling pictures. Patiently, he waited to take and re-take views that would express the architectural splendor of the Greek ruins, as his fervent enthusiasm beheld them. His plates were not retouched or worked in any way to heighten dramatic effect.

View by view one beholds the Acropolis crowned with the Propylea, the Temple of Nike Apteros, the Erectheion, and the Parthenon. These four structures summarize the brief 20 years that spanned "The Age of Pericles."

Mr. Whitaker obliterates the centuries when the buildings were profaned as ducal castles by the Franks and as harems by the Turks. To these fragments, Whitaker's photographs restore their original majesty.

The photographs create an expression so unified that it is difficult to single out prints for particular mention. The two that climax the series are the view of caryatid from the Porch of the Maidens of the Erectheion which shows her figure in full relief, and the view of the Parthenon in which two columns of the west peristyle are silhouetted against the evening sky.

Mr. Whitaker's technical knowledge has increased rather than obscured his reverent admiration for these temples. Of the Parthenon, he says: "All the struggle for power and glory has been washed away by the 2,500 years of sun and wind and rain, until only the pure beauty of its marvelous craftsmanship remains."

CHILD need REGULATING?

CASTORIA WILL STRAIGHTEN HER OUT

Of course you are particular about the medicines you give your child. You want no harmful drugs, no narcotics in a child's medicine.

When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged—never forced.

That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments. It contains nothing that can harm a child's tender organs.

Castoria is so mild you can safely give it to a young infant to ease colic pains. Yet gentle as it is, it is unfailingly effective. Larger doses keep older children well regulated. And babies and children alike love its taste—never object to taking Castoria!

The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's remedy. The genuine Castoria always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

Chas. H. Fletcher.

IT WAS EXACTLY 10 years ago today that George Gibson first appeared at the head of the Pirates in the opening game of a Pittsburgh season. April 20, 1922. Then, as this year, the Cardinals were the visiting attraction, and the Bucs copped the decision, 10 to 3, after a wild argument in which Manager Branch Rickey rushed 17 players into the fray for St. Louis. A lot of water has passed over the dam in the meantime. The participating teams are little more than a memory. Of the 28 men who took the field that day only Pie Traynor remains at the same old post.

Walter Cooper started to pitch for Pittsburgh, but gave way in the seventh to Babe Adams, who held the score safe by knocking out nine of the 10 Cards to face him in the last three innings. Johnny Gooch was behind the bat with Charley Grimm at first base, Cotton Tierney at second, Rabbit Maranville at shortstop, Traynor at third, Carson Bigbee in left field, Max Carey in center and Johnny Mokan in right. Ray Rohwer came in as a pinch hitter.

George Gibson

BESIDES TRAYNOR, ONLY Manager Joe Cronin and Catcher Rick Ferrell remain in the majors of the Washington club, which, as far as the Nationals are concerned, is the big show, and they have passed to different clubs. Both are Boston Red Sox, with manager Marty McManus and Bill Sherdel, veteran left-handed pitcher of the Reds.

All the rest have passed out. They were Eddie Ainsmith and Tubby Clemons, catchers; Clyde Barfoot and Bill Pertica, pitchers; Del Gainer, Johnny Lavan, Milt Stock and George Topotzer, in the infield; Leslie Mann, Austin McHenry, now dead; Joe Schultz and Jack Smith, in the outfield, and Jacques Fournier and Heinie Mueller, pinchhitters. Only Bill Klem, remains of the three umpires who officiated. Paul Santelli is dead and Bob Emslie retired from active duty in 1928 to supervise the staff. Forbes Field itself is about all that Gibson will be able to recognize in his comeback.

SPEAKING OF OLD Pirates, Al Niehaus, a pitcher who broke in with the Bucs in 1922, this year is back in baseball. He is pitching and managing for the Jersey City club in the International League, now managed by Hi Myers, former Boston Nationals outfielder, and said to be controlled by the New York Giants.

Looks like the last we've heard of Barthalomew, who he dropped out of the American Association after playing in only 14 games for Indianapolis last year. There was a familiar ring to the account of a Jersey City game the other day which mentioned that Pooch had leaned against an enemy pitcher for a home run with two mates on the runways in the ninth inning. Evidently the old sock will still linger when he has nothing else left.

TRIS SPEAKER is one former baseball great who hasn't lost faith in the Giants because of their poor start. He is sold on their pennant chances and figures them to beat out the Cards and all other rivals provided Hughes Critz's throwing arm holds up. "I think Koenecke will be a picture in left," Speaker says, "and will round out a great outfield with Ott and Lindstrom. With Critz in shape through the season the Giants will have the best infield in the National League and probably the best outfield, as well."

IF MAX CAREY can be established in Brooklyn as accepted and for any length of time, he will be among the Flatbush fans somewhere near the top of the list. Max has enjoyed it more since he's been waiting for another player-manager combination to be developed.

Take second base, for instance. There is a real novelty for Dodger rooters in the prospect that Tony Cuccinello is to be a first class at that position, as Tony is the ninth man to start a season at the midway in the last 10 campaigns. Preceding him there on opening days since 1923 were Ivan Olson, Joe Klugman, Andy High, Chick Fewster, Jay Partridge, Jake Flowers, Mickey Finn and Fresco Thompson.

Tony Cuccinello

AND THE FIGHTING has not been confined to second base by any means, though the keystone sack heads the list. All around the Brooklyn club has made more changes in its starting lineup through a period of 10 years than any other outfit in the major leagues.

Pitchers have reached as the choice for regular duty at first base, each at third base, seven at shortstop, nine in left field, six in center and five in right.

MAJOR LEAGUE CLUB owners, in sizing up playing prospects in the Pacific Coast League, are likely to feel a bit skeptical about batting averages in that loop this year. For it is rumored that a livelier ball has been sung in. In a seven-game series the Los Angeles and Portland clubs went on a slugging spree and piled up a total of 136 runs, an average of almost 20 to a game, and there have been other high totals in runs and hits to strengthen the impression that there is more rabbit this year in the pellet used on the Coast. The manufacturers, the Wilson Company, say the only change is a better and finer grade of yarn, that this only makes the ball wear longer and would not in any way add to its liveliness.

EVEN THE UMPIRES, however, insist that the ball is livelier. One of them, Pete Cassidy, will open a 1932 pellet and compared it with that of 1931. He says that the sphere now in use is wrapped more tightly and reports that in the Los Angeles-Portland series he saw balls actually come apart while in the hands of the batters.

"The finer grade of yarn undoubtedly gives the ball more resiliency," Cassy says. "In changing to the new yarn the machines probably were not adjusted properly and wound the balls more tightly. I could tell even by the feel of the baseballs that they were firmer and more tightly wound than those used last season."

AMONG THE PROMISING athletes now seeking positions in the Yankee outfield is Ben Chapman, a product of the University of Alabama. Ben was a star of the U. S. A. championship track team of 1931 and was a member of the Olympic squad. He was an outstanding performer in the 1913-14-15-16 football campaigns, playing in the 105, 115 and 122-pound classes.

Ernie Nevers

THE ADDITION OF Ernie Nevers to the football coaching staff at Stanford means that Pop Warner has finally cleared up an unpleasant situation for which he was not responsible. Once before Nevers was appointed to the Stanford coaching staff, but he had been hired over Warner's head and without Pop's knowledge. Warner had his plans already laid, had selected other assistants and had to be loyal to them. All that he could do was to put Nevers in charge of the freshmen. That wasn't satisfactory, and Nevers quit. It is said that Pop didn't want Nevers. He likes Ernie and has repeatedly rated him as his greatest all-time football player, always Jim Thorpe. Warner waited patiently for a chance to straighten things out, and the appointment of Nevers for next fall has now smoothed matters over all around.

The first professional boxing show in Pittsburgh in nine months is on the program for tonight. It will be held in the Moose Temple auditorium, and the advance sale of tickets indicates it will attract many out-of-town fans here for the opening of the baseball season at Forbes Field, in addition to the usual run of patrons.

A double windup of two 10-round battles features the bill. Billy Rose of Cincinnati, a favorite here, meets Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight of Elizabeth, in the main event, and Leon Jendrasiak of Grand Rapids and Steve Senich of Homestead, who recently fought a hard six-round draw at the Kapphan Arena, are in the other 10-rounder. It will be Senich's first start over the route, and Jendrasiak's first appearance in a 10-round bout here.

FORMER AMATEUR STAR

Jendrasiak, a southpaw, managed by Jim O'Grady, Grand Rapids promoter, is a former amateur star, having competed in three tournaments before turning professional. He is a pawing performer with a punch. Both of his starts here have been sensational affairs, the first having been with U. S. Carpenter in the same ring in which he appears tonight.

Al Becker, of Sheraden, and Georgie Peck, of the North Side, middleweights, both of whom have been on the sidelines for some time, box the second bout of six rounds, and Young Lowstetter, of McKeesport, will box a substitute for Frankie Zivic in the opener at 8:30 o'clock.

Between Rounds

The Moose Temple in the N. H. A. elimination tournament meets Maxie Rosenbloom, world light heavyweight champion, in a ten-rounder to Flint Mich., tomorrow night.

Big Jack Wilson, 195th Kane's middleweight, says he was off weight in his bout with Mickey Solomon, which marked his return to Pittsburgh recently, and will show his real form when he meets Jimmy Taylor of Cleveland, in the windup at the Kapphan Arena, Friday night.

An amateur boxing show will be held at the Y. M. H. A. on the night of May 5. Eight bouts will be arranged.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MOVING MOUNTAIN—The Moving Mountain now is about 20 miles north of Las Cruces, New Mexico, and consists of calcium sulphate or lime. It is about 2 miles long by 10 miles wide, and there are ridges on it from 200 to 500 feet high. The lime seems to ooze out of the earth like the waters of a boiling spring. This mountain of lime is traveling steadily eastward at the rate of 10 miles per 100 years. Nothing can stop it as it advances inexorably in glaring whiteness through the centuries, destroying all in front of it. The lime has a great affinity for water, which it abstracts from the air. THE MILCH OX—The milch ox, owned by Dr. Burnham, was a perfect bovine specimen physically, except for the fact that it was milked daily, yielding about a quart of milk per diem. The drawing was made from an actual photograph of the animal.

BUCS' PILOT, PREXY PRAISE TEAM SPIRIT

Satisfaction with the team's morale and fighting spirit and confidence that it will show greater power as the season wears on were the keynotes of statements authorized by Manager George Gibson and President William E. Benswanger, of the Pirates, as the Bucs met the St. Louis Cardinals in the opening game of Pittsburgh's National League season at Forbes Field this afternoon.

STRONG DESIRE TO WIN

Benswanger, in commenting on the morale of the Corsairs, said:

"The Pirates are a better team on the field than they are on paper. I saw them open the season in St. Louis a week ago, and, while they were soundly beaten, they did not let up in their hustle at any time.

"I think the Pirates already have shown they possess the power to come from behind to win. They fought from the rear in St. Louis and were able to get an even break in the four games, and they were impressive in their ninth-inning victory in Cincinnati.

"The players all seemed to be imbued with the desire to win. All of their actions reflect this eagerness, and I think something good will come of the fine morale."

NOT YET AT BEST

Confidence that the Bucs will be at their best when the weather becomes warm and the batting lorrid was voiced by Manager Gibson, who authorized the following statement:

"There isn't a club in the league playing the kind of ball it will show a month from now.

"What I mean to say is that an experimental club like the Pirates will offer a more consistent and more settled brand of ball after the hot weather strikes it. I don't mean that the league will show a lot of bad baseball; but the team play is bound to become smoother, and, in the particular case of the Bucco, you may look for improvement.

"Our club is out to hustle in every game. You can bank on that. And I am satisfied that the team has a good future."

GERMAN WINS BOSTON GRIND

BOSTON, April 20.—(AP)—The machine-like strides of Paul DeBraun, 24-year-old German marathon champion, wore out 220 rivals yesterday as they carried him home first in the thirty-sixth running of the Hopkinton-Boston marathon, 200 yards ahead of Jimmy Henigan of Medford, last year's winner.

The smooth-running Teutan raced almost shoulder-to-shoulder with Henigan during one of the last six miles before uncorking a terrific closing spurt that forced that 40-year-old veteran to wilt badly when the finish line was almost in sight. DeBraun finished strong, in 2 hours 33 minutes 36 2-5 seconds, less than a half-minute slower than the mark established by Johnny Miles, the Canadian ace, back in 1926.

Willie Kyronen, of the Finnish-American A. C., New York, who ran third past five of the seven checking stations, finished in that position, 23 seconds later than Henigan, whose time was 2:34:32.

Clarence DeMar, the 44-year-old Keene (N. H.) teacher who had won seven Boston marathons, six of them in the past 10 years, discovered that his usual pace was much too slow for his younger rivals. He started off in eighteenth place and finished there.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

WASHINGTON, April 20.—When I was 14, long before the steam locomotive was invented, we used to chirp, "April showers bring forth May flowers." Just to show how things change, today April cold waves bring forth June double-headers.

It seems as if the magnates chipped together and bought an Old Farmer's Almanac, picked out the two worst weeks in the year and decided to open the season then. The fans collect a lot of rain-checks that, if they rashed 'em in at par, they'd get snow.

Say, the Cincinnati Reds have got the strongest outfield in baseball. If it wasn't for home plate and the three bases, they'd be this year's champs.

Spain Not to Have Team in Olympics

BARCELONA, April 20.—(AP)—The Spanish Athletic Association announced today that its affiliated athletes would not participate in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles because they were not prepared.

The Spanish Olympic committee has funds available for adequate training, the federation said, and knew the Olympic plans two years ago, but in spite of this nothing was done and only two athletes are now in training for which reason it would be impossible to participate.

Red Sox Release Recruit; Deny Trade

BOSTON, April 20.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox management released John Dashiel of Marshall, Tex., a recruit second baseman, unconditionally to Chattanooga of the Southern Association.

After announcing the trade, President Bob Quinn denied rumors that he contemplated trading Danny MacFayden, his right-handed pitching ace, to the New York Yankees for Tony Lazzeri, second baseman, and Outfielder Earl Combs.

Old Trick Fails To Win Match

TOPEKA, Kan., April 20.—(AP)—Patting his opponent's back three times, the referee's signal to break, won Bill Edwards, 180, of Dallas, Tex., release from a tight hold last night but lost him the wrestling match.

PANTHER TRACK HOPES SOAR

By JESS CARVER

Coach Frank Shea, the head man of Pitt's track and field squad, is entertaining high hopes of holding Ohio State's powerful squad to a respectable score as his Panthers meet the Bucks in a dual meet here Saturday.

The Pitt mentor must concede the Buckeyes first places in the sprints, the hurdles, both high and low (and indifferent), the pole vault, mile and two-mile and in the javelin. However, with Keller and Monheim in the 400 meters, Rob Roy in the 800, Mike Sebastain in the broad jump and Joe Carver and Jim MacMurdo putting the shot, and with enough strength otherwise to assure valuable points here and there, Shea is hopeful of remaining at least within shouting distance of the Big Tenners.

Today, the Pitt varsity golf team is booked for its opening duel of the season, meeting Penn State at State College, and while the golfers are swinging away there, Coach Jock Sutherland, of the footballers, goes to Washington, D. C., for the purpose of speechifying at the annual Varsity G Club dinner of Georgetown University.

OPTIMISTS COP POLO CROWN

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Winston Guest's Optimists once more are National indoor open polo champions.

They trounced the defending titleholders, Los Nanducres, in the final game of the round-robin series last night, 12 to 6½, to win the crown by a full game from Yale. The Optimists won all three of their round-robin contests, while Yale captured two and lost one. Los Nanducres finished third with one victory in three starts, and the Brooklyn Riding Club fourth and last with three straight defeats, the last two on forfeits.

Guest fully lived up to his 10-goal rating last night and scored six himself.

TIGERS AMERICAN LOOP SENSATIONS

BRAVES DEFEAT GIANTS; PHILS SINK ROBINS

Associated Press.

After two lean years, in which he experimented right and left and practically rebuilt from the ground up, Manager Bucky Harris appears at last to have a pretty slick combination at Detroit.

Tied with Washington for the leadership of the American League after winning five of their first seven starts at home, the Tigers easily qualify as the sensations of the early going. It is doubtful if even Harris expects them to stay at the top, but, even so, the former "boy manager" can report progress.

JOHNSON HITS HARD

Right Fielder Roy Johnson has supplied the big batting punch so far with 14 hits in 32 trips for an average of .438. Charley Gehringer, whose bat has been a potent factor in almost every game, drove three runs across with a double and triple yesterday as the Tigers made it three out of four from the Browns, 8 to 0.

The Washington Senators continued their heavy cannonading to lick the Athletics, 7 to 4, and square the series at Shibe Park.

The Yanks and Red Sox divided their Patriot's Day doubleheader at Boston, the Sox scoring their initial victory of the year in the morning tilt, 6 to 5, and the Yanks unlimbering their long-range artillery to take the second encounter, 6 to 3.

Willis Hudlin hurled Cleveland to a 4-to-2 win over the White Sox, allowing only five singles, while his mates jumped on Sad Sam Jones for all their runs in the last three frames.

BRAVES BEAT GIANTS

Wally Berger's triple with two on in the thirteenth inning enabled the Boston Braves to nose out the Giants, 8 to 7, and shove the McGrawmen further into the National League cellar.

With Hack Wilson on the bench, nursing a leg injury, the Brooklyn Dodgers caught a 10-to-2 beating from the Phillies. Ray Benge pitched steady ball all the way.

RELIEF PROJECT CARDED AT EDGEWOOD

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Edgewood Country Club again goes to the head of the class. It is to hold the first tourney of any consequence Saturday and Sunday for the purpose of aiding the needy. The proceeds from the two-day affair will be given to the Family-Help-Family Fund, and members are looking forward to raising a substantial sum for the relief project.

It will be remembered that Edgewood last year sponsored a big tourney for the purpose of assisting the Allegheny County Unemployment Relief Fund.

F. F. Rohrer, president of Edgewood, has announced that anyone who contributes $1 to the fund may play from 8:30 a. m. on, Saturday or Sunday. E. A. Eisenbeis is chairman of the committee in charge and expects a big turnout. Play will not be confined to Edgewood members.

The Hotel, Club and Restaurant Men's Golf Association, according to its president, Walter Hutcheson Mennigke, now of Stanton Heights, is to burst forth with its first event of the season tomorrow night by attending the supper dance of the Western Pennsylvania Restaurant Association in Pirate Hall, William Penn Hotel, beginning at 10 p. m.

The association's first tourney is to be played at Stanton Heights on Tuesday of next week.

Work is progressing on the new Churchill Valley Country Club course and clubhouse, and it is anticipated a formal opening will be in order before many days have passed. A full crew is working on the links and clubhouse. The turf appears to be in fair shape throughout, although it is anticipated the tees and greens will have to be "polished up" for play.

Tomorrow night, at the P. A. A., the annual gathering of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association is to be held. Election of officers and bidding for tournament dates will mark the program.

Big Baseball Program On WCAE Tonight

It's Baseball Night on the air, with a half-hour program salute to the new season scheduled on WCAE, the Voice of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, beginning at 6:45 o'clock.

Bill Sutherland, Saegertown sports announcer, ushers in the program with a graphic description of the opening day doings between the Pirates and Cardinals at Forbes Field. He will attend the battle in the press box and will give you his impressions of the game and the crowd in true reportorial fashion. Instead of writing the story for you to read, he will tell it to you through the microphone. It will be just like sitting in on the contest or seeing it played over again.

LAWSON SISTERS TO SING

Following Sutherland's talk the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, through the Lawson Sisters, of Night Club harmony fame, will offer a baseball song of fond memory, and then Harry Keck, master of ceremonies for the Seals, will open their program by presenting Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle, baseball expert, who will introduce over the air the following famous baseball players:

Frankie Frisch, captain of the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Wild Bill Hallahan, the pitching hero of the Cardinals' triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics in the 1931 world series.

Jimmy Wilson, star catcher of the Cards.

STARS BEFORE MIKE

Capt. Pie Traynor, of the Pirates.

The Waner brothers—Paul and Lloyd, the Big and Little Poisons of the major leagues.

Gus Suhr, first baseman of the Buccaneers, who will tell how he found his batting eye this season.

The Trained Seals will bark intermittently throughout the program.

It'll be a big Baseball Night, befitting the occasion, the opening of another big league baseball season in Pitsburgh.

Tune in on this real feature. A solid half-hour of baseball, the biggest and best of the sports programs for which WCAE is famous.

New Glass Banking Bill To Make Many Changes In Financial Structure

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

FAR REACHING changes in the powers of the Federal Reserve Board, control of banking and the revised Glass-Bea... bill, finally approved by the Senate Committee...

Many of the reforms sought by bankers and the Administration have been changed. The bill does not please bankers as much as they had expected, but they appreciate that it is a step toward the goal they have sought over the years.

The measure would bring about a general ... shortage.

Aimed at Excessive Bull Market Moves

ONE OF THE PRINCIPAL aims of the Glass Bill is to give the Federal Reserve Board powers to curb speculation. It would greatly restrict the use of credit for speculative purposes. It would increase the cost of money used by speculators. This weapon failed or at least did not put on the brakes in time. The new bill gives the board a whip hand over the banks. It would also definitely limit the expansion of credit when it appears that the danger point has been reached.

Liquidating Unit Set Up for Bank Relief

THE BILL ALSO proposes to set up a means for aiding in the release of funds frozen in closed banks. It provides for the establishment of a Federal Liquidating Corporation to purchase the assets of closed national and state banks and to make payments to depositors as rapidly as possible. This corporation can aid closed banks already closed as well as in future suspensions.

The measure also would set up bars which would force all member banks of the Federal Reserve system out of the business of underwriting investment securities either directly or through the ownership of affiliates in the security business.

All foreign relations and negotiations with foreign banks must be under the direct supervision of the Federal Reserve System under the measure as now proposed.

Minimum Capital Set For National Banks

AMONG THE OTHER provisions of the Glass Bill are increases in the minimum capital to be allowed for the establishment of National Banks, changes in the regulations regarding branch banking and a provision that holding companies of bank stocks must maintain a certain proportion of liquid assets to meet liabilities which may be incurred in the case the controlled bank gets into difficulties.

The ways in which the bill plans to put these new controls into effect will be discussed in future articles in this column.

WARNS AGAINST SCORNING AT 'PALLIATIVES'

Harvard Dean Favors Steps Such As Farm Relief to Help Bring Better Times

BY MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, April 20.

Reactionary business executives and bankers who don't get around much are inclined to belittle anti-depression remedies which are admittedly only palliatives. In a period of drastic curtailment the social ...

Mr. Rukeyser

"Superficiality is not involved in the recognition of logical and practical limits beyond which all thinking in any effective sense is impossible. Nor are such compensating devices mere palliatives. Such devices would prevent the cumulative effects of wide swings and confine the fluctuations within the normal margins of safety."

ARE REAL REMEDIES

"It is a commonplace in effective labor management that the piling up of minor grievances must be prevented, for their cumulative effect is a major grievance.

"Palliatives which lessen the swings are themselves remedies. We can, I believe, make great progress if we approach our social and economic questions by using the methods that nature has evolved throughout the ages of biological evolution, and nature has never made these methods depend on understanding of causes.

"Nature is impatient of failure. The past is full of the wreckage of species which failed to adapt themselves to their changing environment."

EXECUTIVES CAUTIONED

In the face of widespread economic deterioration executives can no longer afford to be complacent. The setback is largely a failure of management. Executives whose companies reports are in red ink should be on the defensive to justify their own large compensation.

Progress is delayed by the economic misconception of reactionaries in high places. The fallacious laissez faire look upon economics—on the economics of the middle ages—as an answer to their business problems.

On the contrary scientific economists look upon economics as a mode of thought. Older executives are thinking in terms of the doctrines of John Stuart Mills whose writings they studied while in college. As a matter of fact if Mills were alive today studying the altered economic environment, he would be the first to change his answers.

KENT ELECTED FOX CHIEF

NEW YORK, April 20.—Sidney R. Kent was elevated from the executive vice presidency of the Fox Film Corporation to the presidency at the annual meeting of stockholders and directors yesterday.

He succeeded Edward A. Tinker who was elected chairman of the board in succession to Harley A. Clarke. W. C. Michel replaced Mr. Kent as executive vice president.

The selection of Kent to succeed Tinker had been generally anticipated since Kent left the Paramount forces recently to join the Fox Corporation.

Tinker who assumed the Fox presidency a year ago at the instance of the Chase National Bank, principal creditor of the film organization, approved of Kent's proposed elevation because of his practical knowledge of film operations. Tinker represents the banking interests as the new chairman of the board.

The reduction in stated capital to $5 per share on 612,000 shares from $90,780,000 was approved.

Rails Hold Well—Steel Common Sags Fraction, Preferred at 1904 Low

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—The stock market was unable to decide today whether to follow an upturn in the rails or a moderate decline in a handful of industrials.

Liquidation showed further signs of drying up, but buying interest remained at low ebb Mid-week business statistics were a shade more favorable, but were not sufficiently cheering to interest traders in trying for a rally. The market was sluggish.

In the first hour advances of about 3 points were recorded by Santa Fe and Union Pacific, and leading rails generally advanced a point or so, including New York Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, New Haven, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Baltimore and Ohio. These gains were not fully maintained later on, but on the whole, the carrier list held up well. American Can was again a soft spot, sagging 2 points to a new low before meeting support. United States Steel common lost only a fraction, but the preferred dipped a couple of points to a new low since 1904. Gillette, Allied Chemical, North American and American Telephone were other issues encountering some pressure.

The ability of the general list to hold up well in face of scattered selling and rather sharp declines in a handful of issues during the past few sessions had been regarded in brokerage quarters as distinctly encouraging. Hangover selling, of one sort and another, however, has prevented any resumption of last week's rally. Some brokers say that this selling in a considerable measure reflects the selling out of collateral loans by banks. Other factors are low earnings and prospective dividend cuts.

Some quarters have been hopeful that the Federal Reserve system's credit expansion program would halt the selling out of collateral loans by banks. The latest weekly figures on the amount of such loans—showing a drop of $74,000,000—are now nearly a week old, so it may be that such selling has already been largely stemmed. In dull, thin markets, however, special selling of this character has remained unsettling.

The midweek steel trade reviews showed the expected moderate gain in ingot output, which Iron Age now places at 22½ per cent of capacity, up 1½ points. Electric power production for last week showed a reduction of 9.8 per cent from a year previously, making the best comparison since the week ended March 19. The slump in freight movement, loadings figures showed, had been checked, but the usual seasonal upturn for the week was lacking. The weekly petroleum statistics were favorable, showing a drop of 438,000 barrels in gasoline stocks and 64,850 barrels in daily crude output.

Some quarters took a more hopeful view toward Washington developments, now regarded as among the chief elements of uncertainty overhanging the financial community.

GRAIN FREIGHT CASE OPENED

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP.)—The whole question of freight rates on grain and grain products was thrown wide open today by Examiners Arthur Mackey and George Hall, of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The examiners, in making this decision, ruled down the petition of the western trunk line carriers to exclude all testimony on the economic plights of agriculture.

In reopening the rate hearing today, the commission was virtually right back where it started half a dozen years ago after the Hoch-Smith resolution had ordered a general investigation of all rates.

The taking of testimony was expected to last three weeks with the carriers presenting first evidence. In general, the Chicago hearing will be a presentation of the serious plights of both agriculture and carriers. The grain interests—producers and elevator operators—seek a lower rate. The carriers seek to maintain at least the present rates.

Forbes

Do Not Try to Buy at Unduly Cheap Prices.

—By B. C. FORBES—

Mr. Forbes

TO CONSUMERS: Stop haggling over prices with the object of buying things below cost.

To producers: Stop profitless price cutting.

Too much business today is being done at prices harmful to everybody. Conditions are not improved by lowering prices afterwards. To do business without profit makes matters worse not only for the seller but for wage earners, for stockholders, for investors in the long run, for the public, the government and other tax levies for the nation as a whole.

Profits are essential to prosperity.

A motor manufacturer, for example may think he is smart if, by playing one company against another, he can press down the price he pays for steel to a level which leaves no margin whatsoever for the steel producer. But if undue low prices mean that the steel company must lower wages still further, the nation's ability to buy automobiles is curtailed. Therefore the motor manufacturer is worse off, not better off in the end.

The golden rule is best for business as for humans. Live and let live is as sound economics as it is sound morality.

WON'T THE Interstate Commerce Commission please expedite its sanctioning of mammoth eastern railway mergers? The nation needs not inaction but action. Rail consolidations would stimulate considerable expenditures and effect substantial economies.

TALKING OF rail economies, Ed S. Miller, corn products manufacturer, writes:

"Certainly we want the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to save the banks and the railroads. But meantime, why not ask the railroads to try to save themselves." For instance, each day there are 13 long, heavy, superb Pullman trains leaving Omaha for Chicago. Four or five would more than carry all the passengers now traveling on these 13 trains."

"The insurgent congressional group has railed against the large speculators, but they have aided them more to increase their profits on the short side than any amount of bear drives could do. Prices have melted away since this 'soak the rich' group upset confidence.

"They have been so silly that the bears should not forget and that the stockholders who are voters will not forget."

THIS LETTER expresses I believe, a state of mind which has become unprecedently—not to say ominously—prevalent throughout the country.

"I propose to ask these questions hereafter of all officers in corporations in which I am a stockholder before I send in my proxy to re-elect any of them as directors:

"'Did you or any other officer or director sell any shares of stock in your company in 1930, 1931 or 1932?'

"'Did you take a short position during those years?'

"'Did you sell 'against the box?'

"'While you were giving out optimistic statements, did you act in that same way so far as your own stockholders were concerned?'"

He adds:

"It would be most beneficial if a list could be prepared of all corporations listed on the New York Stock Exchange showing the officers and directors, the number of shares they held in 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932. I believe it would show many unfaithful officials. All such should be relegated to the 'trash heap,' and no longer allowed to draw large salaries from companies they deliberately helped to wreck to fatten their own pockets, instead of acting as trustees."

SOME DAY we will look back upon prices now current and many of us will RICK ourselves.

THOMAS STRONG

CITY LEAGUE NINE SEEKS FAST START

By TOM BIRKS

With the cream of last season's players available and a number of new players with good sandlot reputations angling for berths, Co-Managers Pip Countesbile and Ray Kennedy expect to lead the J. L. Thomas entry in the City League into the pennant contender class.

The Thomas nine always has been a notoriously slow starter and this usually has hurt the chances of the Bloomfielders in the first half title race. The managers this year are going to stage plenty of practice sessions and engage in enough independent games so that when the City League race opens the Bloomfielders will be ready to go.

The pitching staff will be built around Sammy Leon, Dick Ridge, Eddie Imhoff, Foster and Joss, all with previous City League experience. Imhoff is due for a good season. Foster will be a valuable acquisition.

Whether Glenn Miller will be back is a question, but Jimmy Mallett, of Clairton, who looks like a great receiver and who can deliver the old punch at the plate, along with Collinger, should make the Thomas pilots forget catching troubles.

Porco will be on hand again at the initial sack. George Frey and Billy Lewis will be fighting it out for the second base job. Pete Mervosh and Yost are candidates for the shortfield position and while Jimmy Mitchell has not committed himself as yet the Bloomfielders hope to see Jimmy toss 'em across Bean Field from third base.

Donett, ever faithful Thomas man, will be in the outfield together with Polly Brown another Bloomfield stalwart. Nellis who played with Finlex last season and Turner from Etna.

TENNIS CHAMPS NEAR FINAL

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 20.—(AP.)—The annual Mason and Dixon tennis championship had developed today into a "battle of champions" with Ellsworth Vines and Gregory Mangin drawn as quarter-final round opponents.

These two stars hold the two big National singles titles. Vines won the turf court crown at Forest Hills last summer. Mangin defeated Frank Shields for the National indoor championship recently.

Along with Mangin and Vines, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn, J. Gilbert Hall, Frank Shields, Marcel Rainville and Dr. Eugene McAuliff gained the quarter-final round yesterday.

Allison clashes with Hall and Van Ryn plays McAuliff today. The other two matches, Vines vs. Mangin and Shields vs. Rainville, will be played tomorrow.

The OLYMPIC GAMES

By Lawson Robertson

—Head Coach American Olympic Teams—

The following article, in which I pick Frank Wykoff to win the Olympic 100-meters dash, in record time, was written before news of his recent illness, physical condition reached me. However, since Wykoff is aboard ship en route home and will be in good condition by the time the games start, I am allowing the article to stand.—L. R.

CHAPTER XXI.

America's chance of winning the 100 meters at the tenth Olympiad seems much brighter than since 1920, the last time the event was won by a native of this country.

Our crop of short-distance runners this year seems to be much stronger than at any time in the past decade.

The outstanding stars that probably will represent this country in the short races are Frank Wykoff, Eddie Tolan and Emmett Toppino. These three collectively or individually stand out far superior to any other three sprinters that have ever been developed in the same decade.

HANDICAPPED IN 1928

Wykoff has a slight edge on the other two, although it is margin which easily might be offset by the improvement of either of his two great rivals or by a fractional advantage often gained by a better start. However, never in the history of track athletics has the United States had three men capable of running in 9.5 seconds or better.

Wykoff was a member of the team at Amsterdam in 1928 but was plainly out of condition when the 100 meters was run and was decisively beaten by Percy Williams of Canada, and others. Although he demonstrated his ability by winning the 100-meter trials before leaving this country, it was because of an unfortunate accident sustained two days later that he was unable to hold his condition for the big meet abroad.

On Monday following the Saturday in which he won the American trials at Cambridge, Mass., he unwisely resumed training by taking several fast starts at a Brooklyn athletic field. It was during this exhibition that he met with the accident pulling a hamstring tendon.

SEEN AS 100-METER CHAMP

The writer was not apprised of Wykoff's misfortune until the day after the American team landed in Amsterdam. It was noticed, however, that Wykoff did little or no training on shipboard en route. The result was he had gained several pounds and instead of being all burned out from too much competition previous to the big meet he actually was short of work and could not do his best against such a fast field produced in the 100-meter final in Holland.

Since 1928 the Trojan has found more speed, and I feel that he is three or four yards faster than his 1928 form. He is in his native environment and climate and barring accidents, ill health or injuries he should redeem himself, and I pick him to win the crown in the 100 meters in world record time.

VARES ATTAINS SEMI-FINAL

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 20.—(AP.)—Several forced withdrawals left only two matches yesterday in the Old Dominion women's golf championship.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Jr., took advantage of an idle day to play the Cascades course where she won the women's national championship in 1928. She will meet Mrs. Vare, senior, in a semi-final match today.

Miss Grace Amory, of the Seminole Club, Palm Beach, eliminated Miss Abigail Vare, of Philadelphia, 4 and 3, and Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, Sr., of Philadelphia, defeated Mrs. C. G. Quenenberry, of the Farmington Country Club of Charlottesville, Va., 5 and 4.

Leonard Beats Sarko In Six-Round Go

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, took another barrier along the comeback road last night when he won an easy six-round victory over Mike Sarko, New York welterweight, in the main bout at Ridgewood Grove.

Leonard proved entirely too clever for his opponent and outboxed him from start to finish. Benny weighed 151 pounds; Sarko 145.

Schmeling Razzed In Akron Appearance

AKRON, April 20.—(AP.)—Max Schmeling, head man of the heavyweights, was greeted by a chorus of "boos" here last night as he staged three rounds of exhibition boxing.

The champion was mildly applauded when he appeared in the ring, but after one round of sparring the jeers began. After three rounds Bill McCarney heeded loud cries for the next fight by heralding the champion and his partner to the dressing room.

Golfer Gets Assist On Hole in One

CHICAGO, April 20.—(INS.)—A hole in one with an "assist," or what may be termed a synthetic ace, went into the records today of the Beverly Country Club.

Off the seventeenth tee Boughton McDougal, a college student drove to within three inches of the pin. His opponent, Bruce Herd, shot into a trap and the ball, bouncing out, struck McDougal's pellet and forced it into the hole. McDougal was credited with a hole in one.

Aussie Net Stars Beat Gledhill, Hoogs

HONOLULU, April 20.—(AP.)—Jack Crawford and Harry Hopman, ranking Australians, won the men's doubles of the mid-Pacific invitation tennis tournament yesterday from Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Cal., national intercollegiate champion, and Bob Hoogs, of Honolulu, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, in the final round.

Earlier in the day Gledhill and Hoogs had advanced to the finals by defeating Clemenger and Sproul, of Australia, 6-0, 6-4.

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY :-: :-: By ANTHONY ABBOT

CHAPTER XII

The homely yellow man began by telling nothing. With his pumpkin-like bald head gleaming with moisture, and his gold teeth shining between his parted lips, the ill-favored Chung walked to the drawing room doorway, hands at his side, and stood deferentially waiting to be questioned. His answers were explicit, if prolix. He had not seen Miss Christine Quires return on this, the three hundred and sixty-fifth night of the latest year of the Christian calendar. He had spent the entire evening in the kitchen, shelling peas and reading a paper-bound life of a cinema actress of great popularity. He was familiar with all of the 32 rooms in the house and knew [illegible] Colt might [illegible] where Christine Quires [illegible] remained [illegible].

But the Commissioner [illegible] on hoping [illegible] thing [illegible] magnificent.

"What [illegible]

"Chung, [illegible]

"And [illegible]

"People [illegible]

"Where [illegible]

"Oxford.

"Indeed! Of what [illegible] your people?

"My father was an exporter of silks."

CIVILIAN OBSERVER

Colt looked at the butler shrewdly.

"Then what is a man from such a family doing as a butler in this household?"

Chung inclined his head forward gracefully.

"My country is not so old-fashioned as many people imagine. In my country a young man of unusual intelligent like myself may be employed in the service of the government, like myself, to travel far and wide and observe foreign ways and report the habits of other countries."

"So you are a spy!"

"No, sir. A spy is a military observer. I am not in the service of the army. I am a civilian observer."

"Then, why do you work in the household of Lola Carewe?"

Chung's face was impassive as he replied.

"To observe the manners of lower middle-class Americans."

"How long have you worked for Miss Carewe?"

"Since she was married to Mr. Gifford. For Mr. Gifford I worked two years before he married Miss Carewe. Poor Mr. Gifford."

"Why poor Mr. Gifford?"

"He died."

TELLS OF QUARRELS

"Then you came with his widow? Did you like working for her?"

"Sometimes."

"Only sometimes? What was wrong other times?"

"Too much work. Always dinner parties, luncheon parties, late suppers—I have no time read Li Po!"

"But she was kind to you?"

"Yes."

"Have you any knowledge of any of her enemies?"

"That is not my business."

"You do not know anyone with whom she quarreled?"

"Oh, yes. I know that."

"With whom, Chung?"

"It was a very strange household, Mr. Commissioner. People suspected each other. For instance—I had charge of the parrot and dog. I fed both. I did not poison them. Yet I felt Miss Lola suspected me."

Synopsis

Despite the police guard placed in her home by Commissioner Colt, Lola Carewe suspected "higher-up" of a jewel thief ring is mysteriously murdered. Dr. Hugh Baldwin gives heart failure as the cause of death. Those present at the time, besides Colt and his aides, were Lola's mother, Mrs. Carewe, the butler, maid, and Vincent Rowland, an attorney. Colt feels the young man whose photograph adorns Lola's dresser—and whose identity she refused to reveal beyond his first name, Basil—is connected with the mystery. At the mention of his name Mrs. Carewe becomes hysterical, saying Basil was a cruel beast and Lola never loved him. Christine Quires, Lola's guest, cannot be located, though the elevator boy claims she returned around midnight with her escort, Guy Everett, and Colt finds the bag she carried. Colt 'phones Everett's apartment after 3 a. m. and learn Everett has not arrived. A clue in the form of a small wooden box is picked up under Lola's window. Chung, the butler, is questioned.

Now Go On

Did she tell you so?" blurted Dougherty.

"No, sir, but her glances were like indictments. I believe Mrs. Carewe was afraid of Miss Lola. They very frequently quarreled. I even heard Miss Lola say to her mother, 'I want to get rid of you forever.' Is that a way for a daughter to speak to the parent she should honor?"

MADE MEN DESPERATE

Chung's question was entirely rhetorical. His tone was answer enough. Like a poet reciting his own verses, he hastened on:

"You ask me if I have known Miss Lola to quarrel. I say that I have known little else. She made many men desperate—that I know. I am facing the law. I must tell the truth, so help me God. I heard one man threaten her life."

"Who was that?" barked Dougherty excitedly.

Guy Everett, the theatrical gentleman."

"When?"

"A week or so ago—in this room."

"Where were you?"

"In my kitchen."

"And you heard him say what?"

"'I wish I could strike you dead.'"

"Hear anything else?"

"No, sir—that was the only time his voice was raised high enough for me to hear."

"Then," said Thatcher Colt, "you don't know what they were quarreling about?"

"No, sir."

Chung had spent the entire evening in the kitchen.

"With whom else did Miss Lola quarrel?"

"That old gentleman whom you let go home."

"Mr. Rowland?"

"She quarreled with him."

"When?"

"Here, again in this room—tonight."

"You heard it?"

"All."

"What did they quarrel about?"

"I heard Mr. Vincent Rowland tell her that she was playing a dangerous game. That the police would get on to her. That not everyone would stand for what she was doing."

"And what was she doing?" asked Colt tensely as Dougherty, Fallon and I drew nearer. But the Chinaman only shrugged.

"I wish I knew," he confessed with a gold-toothed smile. "I believe in law. I believe in order. I am telling these facts about my mistress because I believe in law and order."

"Keep all this to yourself," admonished Colt. "I will talk with you further."

He was dismissing the Chinese waitress because at that moment had come a clamor at the door. The detail from headquarters was arriving. Colt quickly dispatched Chung to his kitchen as there marched into that exquisite apartment a group of picked experts from the New York police department. Leading the procession was Assistant Chief Inspector Flynn, in command of the detectives of the New York Police Department. Flynn was the second ranking officer of the entire force, occupying the post originally created for Edward P. Mulrooney, now commissioner. His vitally important position is now held by Flynn's successor, John J. Sullivan, one of the ablest officers in the department.

Assistant Chief Inspector Flynn was one of the old guard, a graduate of that stern class of officers led by Inspector Thomas Byrnes and Supt. George W. McCluskey, old-time police officials now dead, who in the days when Fulton street was the dead line terrified the New York criminal world.

Heart of a Wife

Dicky Hears About Plot on Madge

"What in—" Lillian began as we saw Dicky race down the hall and unlock the door, calling to me to answer him.

"Dicky!" I called after him frantically, but he did not hear me, and as he disappeared into the darkness outside I ran after him, forgetting Lillian and her question. But she caught up with me as I reached the door, and I spoke breathlessly.

"Help me, all him!" He thinks I'm out in the bungalow," she commented, but her voice joined mine in sounding my husband's name.

His response was prompt.

Lillian reached back and switched off the light and then drew me back into the hall. Dicky's feet pounded on the gravel, and he dashed up the steps as if some wild animal were trailing him.

"Where in the seven hinges of the hot place were you?" he demanded breathlessly. "And why hasn't Jim reported?"

He broke off abruptly, and I saw that it was no part of his scheme to let me know the surveillance which he had asked Jim to keep over me, but of which poor Jim, inadvertently had informed me, begging at the same time that I would not reveal my knowledge to Dicky.

"I was in the studio until a little while ago, perhaps twenty minutes. Then I came into the house."

LILLIAN EXPLAINS

"Why didn't you come straight upstairs to your room?" His voice held the aggrieved tone which every wife I think recognizes. It usually is employed just before breakfast, but it often is used at other times and I have often thought that the degree of grievance it expresses is always in inverse proportion to the cause of irritation.

"I'll answer that young fella, me lad," Lillian struck in sweetly. "Because Harry flagged her just as she was coming in the door and sent her post haste for Katrina. I had gone out to the kitchen to get my liege lord some coffee, so I wasn't available as errand girl for the minute, though I came back later in time to watch developments."

"Developments! What developments?" Dicky demanded, and I smiled to myself as I saw that his curiosity for the moment had gotten the better of his irritation.

"Our friend recovered consciousness," Lillian said.

"The dickens he did. He's better then?"

"That we do not know, yet. He was pretty much exhausted when he got through talking, I fancy. Katherine shooed us out before we'd had time to do much questioning."

"Did he spill anything?"

TELLS OF LEE CHOW

"Not much. I'll give you all the dope we have, but not here. Look here! How about some coffee? You know me. I never make a cup but a whole percolator full when I get an order. So as I've just made some for Harry, there are cups and cups in the kitchen just waiting for somebody to come and drink 'em. So come along and I'll spill you the dope while we sip the mocha. I suppose I'm terribly extravagant at that."

"Did you ever know any of that extra coffee to go to waste?" Dicky asked. "I can't imagine such a possibility in this house, where coffee is demanded at all hours."

"You're a swell comforter, Dickybird," she told him affectionately. And then we were in the kitchen and settling ourselves around the small table upon which Jim and Katie have their meals.

"You haven't forgotten how, Lil," Dickey said appreciatively, as he finished his cup.

"My one domestic accomplishment," Lillian laughed, "but you may have another cup without the compliment, although I like it."

She filled all our cups again, and then outlined briefly for Dicky all that the wounded Chinese had said. As she went on with her word-for-word recital I began to get uneasy, and when she finished by telling him that the wounded man had said it did not matter what happened to an old man like him, but that Lee Chow and his "fiend" would feel very sad if my "plitty face spoiled," I caught my breath in dismay. Why on earth had she included that in her account?

Mother of 7—Still Young

Her system does not stagnate, her face doesn't sag. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong active bowels.

When you're sluggish and the system needs help, don't take a lot of "patent medicine." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement.

The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a sallow complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary!

Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time, bring health and vigor that protect you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a big bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin today. Use often enough to avoid those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and run-down or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need to be stimulated. Give it to children instead of strong laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.

The Best Paying Job

Delinquent Tax Collector's Huge Fees Give Point to the Demand That It Be Made a Salaried Office.

The report of the auditors who have been investigating the County Delinquent Tax Collector's office gives point to the demand of various civic organizations that officeholders paid by fee be placed on salaries.

The auditors told the County Commissioners yesterday that the Delinquent Tax Collector's net commissions last year, after deduction of office and other expenses, totaled $149,331. This confirms the common belief that the Delinquent Tax Collector has the best paying public job in the county.

There is a story to the effect that the Delinquent Tax Collector does not retain for his personal use all of the net commissions received, but turns over a considerable part to the Republican organization. The Delinquent Tax Collector's office, according to this gossip, is the machine's "war chest," one of its chief sources of supply for campaign funds.

Walter J. Christy, who held the office last year, has been asked if he personally retained all the money that the office paid. He did not see fit to discuss the matter.

There is no reason why as much as $149,331 of the taxpayers' money should go in one year to the Delinquent Tax Collector. A good man could be had for the job at a salary of less than one-tenth that much.

Strikers' Grievances

They Should Not Be Required to Deal at Coal Company Stores.

Leaders of the striking coal miners in Washington County say the men have quit work because they were required to trade at the company stores, because they were refused the right of union check-weighmen on the tipples, and because the operators refused any change from the "60-40" wage scale. Under this scale the miners receive 60 cents, the operators 40 cents, from each dollar's worth of coal sold.

The grievance against company stores is an old one. In almost every strike of coal miners in this district we hear the complaint that the men have to pay exorbitant prices in the stores maintained by the operators in the mining villages.

The stores are far from being an unmixed evil. They are generous in extending credit. The miners often would have a hard time getting along without them. But it is unreasonable of the operators to insist that the employes buy their household needs from them. The men should be free to trade wherever they can do so most advantageously.

Its Finest Product

Mellon Institute Considers Trained Men Its Greatest Contribution to Humanity.

Several years ago an official of the Chamber of Commerce was asked how, if he were given $5,000,000 to spend for the benefit of Pittsburgh, he would use the money. First, he answered, he would spend the $5,000,000 on an advertising campaign through which he would raise $10,000,000.

Something of the same point of view appears in the remark of Dr. E. R. Weidlein, in the nineteenth annual report of the Mellon Institute, of which he is director, that its greatest contribution to humanity has been, not the inventions and discoveries, not the new products and new processes that have been evolved in its laboratories, but the men it has turned out as trained additions to the forces of manufacturing and teaching.

The 313 fellows and 357 fellowship assistants of the institute who have completed their services to science and technology and have entered the fields of industry and education are carrying on the institute's mission in varying activities and in places remote from Pittsburgh. Many additional inventions and manufacturing improvements are bound to result from the training they received in the institute, just as the proposed Chamber of Commerce fund would have been, in the official's opinion, redoubled by an advertising campaign.

A School for Adults

The Board of Education Is Wisely Providing Instruction for Unemployed Men.

On recommendation of Dr. Ben G. Graham, city superintendent of schools, the Board of Public Education has decided to conduct a school for adults in the Clifford B. Connelley Trade School building for six weeks beginning June 27. It is a wise move.

Unemployed youths have been flocking to the public schools and the universities. Unable to obtain jobs, they have prudently concluded not to loaf, but to put their leisure to some use that might prove profitable later.

No doubt there are many grownups who would like to go to school, too, to repair the defects in their juvenile education or to push on into higher subjects, but who are deterred by a natural unwillingness to sit in classes of children and adolescents. The summer school for adults will relieve them of that embarrassment.

The State Fur Catch

Trapping Is a Side Line Not to Be Disdained, as Trappers' Receipts in a Sub-Normal Year Disclose.

The State Game Commission's report on trapping operations in Pennsylvania during the season just ended no doubt will surprise many who are not accustomed to think of this old and thickly settled industrial state as rich in wild life.

More than a million valuable fur bearing animals were caught, including 497,259 muskrats, 319,329 skunks, 117,157 opossums, 58,208 weasels, 31,092 raccoons, 13,894 minks, 5,203 red foxes, 7,575 gray foxes, and 284 wild cats.

Fur prices are extremely low. Pennsylvania's trappers received for their catch only $800,000, as against a five-year average of $1,560,000. Even at that a side-line for farmers and country boys that yields $800,000 in an off season is not to be disdained.

Mellon's Admission: Debts and Tariff

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Ambassador Mellon has been given the most cordial welcome at the Pilgrims' dinner in London ever accorded an American diplomat accredited to St. James. The Prime Minister, who is ill, was represented by Sir John Simon, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; the Prince of Wales made an almost obsequious speech, and the King sent a telegram. Whether this great cordiality is an expression of appreciation for favors hoped for in the matter of the debts, we do not know and can only guess. However, Mr. Mellon in his address did not mention the subject. But he did make a remarkable concession to reality thought when he said:

"Part of our difficulty arises because we look on the present industrial economic crisis as merely a sporadic illness of the body politic due to conditions in some particular country or section of the world which can be cured by applications of some magic formula. Greater difficulty arises because we who are left over from the last century continue to look on the last decade as merely a prolongation of all that is gone before. We insist upon trying to make life flow in the same channels as before the war, whereas in the years since the war ended are in reality the beginning of a new era, not the end of the old."

This is a concession to realities the administration here has never made openly before.

* * *

We Warmly Welcome Mr. Mellon

This is an important utterance since, as far as we know, it is the first admission from the ruling forces in this country that the present panic is not "just another panic." No one has been more insistent with the theory that our trouble here is "due to conditions in some other particular country or section" than the President himself. Practically all the spokesmen of the administration and the administration party have smugly ascribed our troubles entirely to conditions in Europe. Now comes Mr. Mellon to admit that this is the bunk; that a new era is here with new problems that must be met with new methods. When he says that while this is "the beginning of a new era, it is not the end of the old" he evidently means that our political and social system will not go down but will be saved through such reforms as the new era may demand. That has been the tone of these columns for a year; and some old-fashioned folk have thought it "radical." We warmly welcome Mr. Mellon to such radicalism.

Gov. Smith on The Debts

In his Jefferson Day speech, Gov. Smith made a definite suggestion on the debts. The reaction in Congress has not been such as to offer any promise of its adoption. It means a 20-year moratorium and practical cancellation. It was predicated on the theory that the debtor nations cannot, or, at any rate, will not pay what they borrowed.

This is challenged sharply. It simply is not true that France cannot pay; nor that England cannot pay; nor that Italy cannot pay. They can. Not one of these countries is in a worse economic condition than the United States; not one is burdened with such a deficit; not one has a greater proportion of its people unemployed; and, with the exception of England, none of the three approach the number here.

Were we reeking with prosperity the situation would be different, but we are not. Here are four poor families in a row, and it is proposed that one of the four families assume the debts of the other three.

* * *

We Have Lost Our Foreign Markets

The indisposition of Congress or the people to assume the debts of the 14 nations does not mean, as some would have us think, that we are so stupid that we do not realize that international relationships are responsible for much of the world's distress today, and for much of our own. Ex-Gov. Smith himself touches upon the devastating effect of the artificial barriers against foreign trade for which we are primarily responsible.

We have lost our foreign markets. They are closed in our face. They were closed in our face as an act of retaliation—because we closed our markets to other nations. It was common knowledge among the commonly intelligent that this would be the effect of the Grundy tariff act.

Now that we have led the nations of the world into this stupid trade war it is up to us to lead it out; and this can be only through the initiative of the United States in inviting international conferences to arrange reciprocal agreements. Economists think this should be done. Business men and many manufacturers think so too. Financiers are anxious that it be done.

* * *

The President Will Not Sign

And so the House passed a tariff act the only sort that offers any possibilities of results—calling upon the President to take the initiative. The Senate has passed the measure—but the President will not sign.

This may be due to pride of opinion, since he, more than any other one or dozen men, was responsible for the enactment of the Grundy act, which has brought the stoppage of foreign trade.

No one act of the administration has done more damage to the American people. It lost us our foreign markets. This has been disastrous to the shipping interests—they no longer carry great cargoes, and the finest of trans-Atlantic liners are forced to pick up excursionists for little trips to keep afloat. The railroads have suffered enormously—they no longer come heavily laden from all quarters of the country to the ports, to carry back goods brought over in the ships.

If you would visualize the effect of this tariff act, consider New York harbor, and compare the appearance now with the appearance before there was a Grundy act.

And make an excursion through the great office buildings and note how many importers and exporters have gone out of business.

* * *

Factories Are Moving To Other Countries

And because we have lost the foreign markets to satisfy Mr. Grundy's contributors to a campaign fund, there has been a necessary reduction in the output of the factories; and this has constantly lengthened the army of the unemployed in the streets. Worse still, in the long view, our factories are moving to other countries to get beyond our Chinese tariff wall.

Last week the representative of a British Chamber of Commerce came to this country on the mission of picking up American factories for England and offering desirable sites. Think of that! American capital to be used in employing British labor, to reduce unemployment in England, and to help the English merchants and farmers by thus increasing the purchasing power of the English workingmen!

* * *

The Grundy Act Is Sacrosanct!

And yet the banks, the businessmen, the press who opposed the Grundy act and have said that it is utterly destructive of foreign trade, are strangely silent now that Congress has put something up to the President. Is it because a campaign has begun and Mr. Hoover stubbornly insists that the Grundy act is sacrosanct? Congress has acted with intelligence—but where is the response from the business men it is trying to serve?

Marry-Go-Round

Love, In Reverse

A "Greater Love," these days, is any man who keeps his mind on what he's doing when he kisses you, instead of glancing over your shoulder at another woman.

* * *

It's pretty hard for a man to realize that the "devil" he puts on the train for Reno was once the "angel" he took to Niagara Falls for the honeymoon.

* * *

Thrills, speed and whoopee are the things that many a modern girl seeks in order to forget that she isn't as happy as she would be if she had a simple, old-fashioned love affair and a chance to sit placidly at home and darn some man's socks.

Competition is the life of the love-game. A man seldom realizes that he has found "the right woman" until he sees "the wrong man" about to walk off with her.

* * *

Of course there are "just as good fish in the sea as ever were caught," but what good does that do a woman who has used up the last of her bait in landing a minnow?

* * *

It's a waste of time to ask a philander why he ever tied himself up to a woman, because, in nine cases out of ten, it was because that was the only way he could discover of untying himself from a lot of others.

Marriage improves a man's power of concentration. No bachelor can read the editorial page, and at the same time listen to a woman's chatter with one ear and half a brain-cell.

* * *

It always hurts a man's feelings to discover that, just because he was careless enough to become "engaged" to a girl for the spring petting-season, she should expect him to MARRY her.

A woman doesn't regard her new photograph as a good likeness, unless it looks at least five years younger than the one she had taken 10 years ago.

Isn't It So?

The hardest step is over the threshold.

The worst swindler of all is the man who cheats himself.

If you think twice before you speak once, you will speak twice the better for it.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 20.—Harlem has fomented its own intelligentsia. It is composed of young Negroes in the cultural throes of becoming writers, artists and musicians. They hold teas and group in "salons" to venerate the arts.

In this academe are many who attained celebrity on the stage, on the radio and in other ways. And there are also the strugglers who merely whiff the saddleleather of the head riders and continue humbly to run elevators and do porter work.

Now and then the blue-eyed, flaxed-haired Nordic, Carl Van Vechten, attends gatherings and addresses them. Also Roland Hayes, Paul Robeson, Bill Robinson and other of the successful. One of the newest Negro idols is Wallace Thurman, who authored "Infants of the Spring."

The Mills Brothers, who came out of shanties across the railroad tracks at Piqua, O., to aircasting fame, are sartorial surprises of the moment, along Strivers Row and the peaks of Sugar Hill. The members of the Southern Quartet, also on the air, are in high favor.

Yet Harlem finds none of its present paladins surpassing the furore of the late Florence Mills and Bert Williams. These two represent the high mark of the Black Belt's sentimental affections. So much so, they are now seeking to have streets named for them.

When warm weather simmers the asphalt, intellectuals will clot in the shade of the famous "Wishing Tree" on Seventh avenue. This, for years, has been the open forum of friendly debate. It is a sturdy maple whose leafy branches are believed to shed good fortune.

There is a distinct class clash between the Harlem intelligentsia and snake-hip dancers and chanters of hot-cha-cha and skiddle-de-scow in the black and tan auberges. The former do not mingle with them socially for they are "lush-tackers," whatever that may mean.

* * *

A famous chiseler has been having rough sledding. A creditor learning he was ensconced at an upper avenue inn, waited for him in the foyer. After a long time he told his troubles to the clerk on duty and left a burning note to be delivered. When it was handed to the grafter he read, crumpled and tossed it in a waste-basket, murmuring, "Silly girl."

* * *

Many servants of celebrities attain a certain celebrity, too. The Bob Davises' Magsie has welcomed almost every writer of distinction in the past 30 years. Harold MacGrath has a "hired girl" who joins company in conversation. Stanley Rinehart's Filipino wants to be a writer and shows his efforts to authors. Ray Long's Christopher is a beardless G. B. Shaw displaying a bit of Shavian contentiousness if kept up too late. The Courtney Ryley Coopers' Fay has been in service nine years and weeps when a manuscript returns for revision. Flo Ziegfeld's Sidney, a Wodehouse "gentleman's gentleman" in real life, knows everybody of consequence in the theater, as does Helen Morgan's colored maid, Nasturtium.

* * *

* * *

And then there is Frank Crumit's mot, as one of the flamboyantly dressed juveniles in his new spring attire passed by. "Earl Benham in a sour mood," he murmured.

* * *

One of the tenets of the Rialto's doctrine of exuberance is a premature burst of chivalry toward fellow performers along the streets, e. g. rushing up to kiss beautiful damozels and circling their waists while walking along. It offered an odd picture this afternoon. A matinee idol embraced three ladies in a group of four with loud smacks. On the fourth he bestowed a handshake and a casual sing-song "Hello." She was his wife. And what is more, their marriage has been a happy one.

Not if you threw in four grand dukes, a grand piano and a rubber tired droshky.

LISTEN, WORLD -:- -:-

By Elsie Robinson

You are waiting to do something. The thing you are waiting to do is important. It may affect your whole life. Great good fortune may come out of it.

But, on the other hand, there's also an element of risk in it. It may cause unpleasantness—may mess things up.

And so you've delayed. Of course you intend to do it some day. BUT YOU'RE WAITING FOR THE RIGHT TIME TO COME.

Some day when it's perfectly convenient—

When it won't cause a lot of complications—

When you're absolutely sure that everything is Okay—

Then you'll do it. Sez you!

NO, YOU WON'T!

YOU'LL NEVER DO IT AT THAT TIME, FOR THAT TIME WILL NEVER COME.

The ideal time for action never does come. Not for anyone.

No human step has ever been taken that was 100 per cent wise, safe, pleasant and convenient.

There's always a good reason AGAINST doing anything. There are often as many reasons against doing a thing as there are reasons FOR doing it.

And if you "stop, look and listen" to all those reasons, you'll never go ahead.

But shouldn't you look at both sides of the question?

You should. You should take every point into consideration, investigate every danger, size up the probable profit and the possible price.

You should do this thoroughly—ONCE. Then you should either fish or cut bait.

For if you keep on enumerating all the dangers to yourself, you'll never do anything else but. Each new resume of the dangers ahead will chill and muddle and frighten you the more.

Of course, you can alibi this process by calling it "caution." BUT IT ISN'T CAUTION—IT'S COWARDICE.

It's the old primitive fear, lurking in us yet—the fear of the savage who was afraid to cross the big mountain or the wide water, who dared not leave his own familiar bit of jungle. Treasure might lie in the mountain. Freedom might wait across the river. But there were risks, and so he delayed; talked about going some day, but never went.

If there is something you should do and you know you should do it—do it.

DO IT RIGHT NOW.

It will be inconvenient? Of course, it will.

PROGRESS IS ALWAYS INCONVENIENT. PROGRESS IS ALWAYS UNPLEASANT AND UNCOMFORTABLE; USUALLY DANGEROUS.

But it's worth it!

Take your chances. Cross your mountain!

STOP STALLING.

Wise Words

Our idea remains the same from whatever brain, or in whatever region, it had its birth.—Menzel.

When men first take up an option, and then afterwards seek for reasons for it, they must be contented with such as the absurdity of it will afford.—South.

The countenance may be rightly defined as the title-page which heralds the contents of the human volume, but, like other title-pages, it sometimes puzzles, often misleads, and often says nothing to the purpose.—Matthews.

Text For Today

Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted. Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ.—Galatians, vi:1, 2.
